Open House Policy . . .

IDA Delegation Presents Resolution

By JAN PARKS
Junior Staff Writer

A delegation of Inter-Dormitory Association Council members presented a resolution Thursday to four administrators in the office of Student Affairs expressing disapproval of an attempted change in dormitory open house policy.

IDA unanimously approved the resolution last week when several dormitories reported that requests for open houses had been denied.

The resolution was presented to Russell Brown, associate dean of student affairs; G. Robert Ross, vice-chancellor and dean of student affairs; Miss Helen Snyder, associate dean of student affairs; and Robert Scott, coordinator of student activities.

UNILATERAL

"IDA felt that someone had made a unilateral decision," Brown said Sunday. "But the only decision made was that the open house policy for dorms needed reviewing."

He said a group of administrators including Mrs. Mary Cunningham, assistant in student affairs; Dean Snyder; and Robert Scott had met previously to discuss several problems concerning student activities. Ross said he was making only a supposition, but "apparently out of that meeting came the change causing several denials in dorm requests for open houses."

The Dean of Student Affairs said a change was not yet official and that clarification of the open house policy would be made at a faculty senate subcommittee meeting this week.

"The subcommittee will review the whole area of dorm open houses," Ross explained.

UNDERSTANDING

He said IDA presented the resolution effectively, and thought the administration now had a better understanding of the situation.

Ross thought the subcommittee would be an effective way to handle the open house policy and said two ASUN members had been appointed to serve on the committee.

"It has also been agreed that the chairman of the committee will invite IDA representatives," he said.

Paul Canarsky, IDA chairman of coed visiting, said "complete clarification of dorm open house policy may take several weeks."

Canarsky, one delegate who presented the resolution, said,

"no one really knows what the correct procedure for open houses is."

REVERT

Dave Shonka, IDA vice-president, said the subcommittee would decide if it would revert to its previous policy of allowing only a limited number of dorm open houses or to the precedent established in the last few years.

Shonka thought administration was trying to bypass student government. At last week's meeting he said, "a clarification in dorm open house policy may be needed, but the administration should consult us before such a change is made."

Shonka said the delegation explained IDA's position to the administrators and listed the resolution part by part.

"It was also discussed that in Greek houses students may have visitors in their lounges any time," said Shonka. "In Abel there are 13 floors with 13 lounges, and our residents have very few opportunities to entertain guests."

INCOMPLETE

Shonka explained the faculty subcommittee was not yet complete in its membership. "Whatever the committee decides will be considered final by the administration," he said.

"The subcommittee may turn the question of open house policy over to the entire faculty committee," explained Shonka, "or keep it in the subcommittee for further study."

He said the subcommittee would make provisions for an open house policy for the interim period until a final decision is made on the open house policy.

The deadline for open house requests has been extended until the day after the subcommittee meets, he said.

Homecoming . . .

Five Locations Picked For Election Centers

Five voting locations have been established for Wednesday's all student election, according to Ed Hilt, ASUN election commissioner.

The polls will be open for voting on Homecoming Queen and on a proposed University FM radio station.

Voting sites have been set up by colleges, Hilt said.

Students in the college of Arts and Sciences will vote at the Union, Teachers at Teachers College, Agriculture and Home Economics at East Union, Engineering and Architecture at Ferguson Hall, Business Administration, Graduate and Professional at Love Library and all colleges at the Union.

The polls will be open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., except for the all-colleges voting at the Union, which opens at 6 a.m. and closes at 8 p.m.

The procedure for voting in the election will be the same as the Vietnam referendum, Hilt said.

Students will be required to present their identification cards at the polls. They must sign and also have their hand stamped with an ultraviolet ink to prevent voting with other identification cards.

The Homecoming Queen and two attendants selected by popular vote will be announced at the Homecoming Dance Friday night.

Queen candidates are Trish Sultzbaugh, Gail Skinner, Sherie Sicklebower, Nancy Shook, Joleen Phillips, Susie Kunc, Connie Ewerth, Maggie Evenson, Judy Busboom and Barb Boczar.

The queen, her attendants and their parents will be honored at a luncheon Saturday noon at the Lincoln Hotel.

Homecoming display winners will also be announced at the dance, which will be at the NU Coliseum with Tommy James and the Shondells.

Tickets for the dance are available at the Nebraska Union for $1.50 from Tasseis and Corn Cobs. Coeds will have 2 a.m. hours.

In addition to the queen candidates, the FM referendum will be on the ballot Wednesday.

The referendum will concern proposed $1.10-levy on all students each semester for the operation of the FM station, backed by University Student Broadcasting Foundation (USBF).

The station would cover both the city and east campuses as well as much of Lincoln, according to Bob Wilson, USBF student coordinator.

Wilson said last week that the station would probably operate from 6 p.m. to midnight weekdays and 3 p.m. until midnight, or later, weekends.

Educational programming would account for about two hours of the station's broadcast time.

Also mentioned by Wilson as possible material is student service programs including music, taped replays of campus speakers, discussions and panel programs.

Remaining time might be used for a campus newscast, popular music and campus calendars.

Seats Available For Baez Concert

Ticket sales for the Joan Baez concert on November 15 are running below the pace of past Nebraska Union productions, according to Special Events Chairman Phil Bowen.

Miss Baez, one of the leaders of the nation's Vietnam peace movement, will present a two-hour concert of folk songs at Pershing Auditorium.

Tickets for the concert are now on sale at Pershing, Bowen said.

University To Dedicate Dental Facility On Friday

By GARY GILLEN
Junior Staff Writer

Dedication ceremonies for the University's new Dentistry Building, which has been described as the most modern instructional and clinical facility in the field of dentistry, will be held Friday.

Special modern equipment, such as a closed circuit television that is available throughout the building, will allow the college to employ many advanced teaching techniques, Dean Ralph L. Ireland said.

Dedication ceremonies will include a luncheon to be held Friday noon.

SPEAKERS NAMED

Speakers at the luncheon will include Governor Norbert Tiemann, Chancellor Clifford M. Hardin, Dr. Ireland and Dr. Harold Hilledbrand, secretary of the American Dental Association.

Dr. Viron L. Diefenbach, assistant surgeon general and director of the Division of Dental Health for the U.S. Public Health Service, will also speak.

After the luncheon the dedication ceremonies will be held at the new building with Dr. L. E. Blank, president of the College of Dentistry Alumni Association serving as master of ceremonies.

Guided tours for the public will be available from 2 to 5 p.m. on Friday and from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday during an open house.

FLOOR SPACE EXPANDED

The new facility gives the college about three times the space it occupied in its old home on the third floor of Andrews Hall where the college has been located since 1926.

The main floor of the 4 million dollar building is devoted to offices and clinics, while the ground floor is used for the instructional program.

The new building provides three classrooms, three seminar rooms, one 84-station clinic, a radiological clinic, periodontic and orthodontic clinic, a dental hygiene clinic and an oral surgery clinic.

ENROLLMENT CAN INCREASE

The new space, about 101,000

Space Engineer To Talk At Love

G. C. Hoskin, senior project engineer at North American Rockwell Corporation, Space Division, will present a lecture this Wednesday at Love Memorial Auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

Mr. Hoskin, who is responsible for the propellant dispersion system for the second stage of the Saturn V launch vehicle, will speak about "Apollo 4: First of the Big Shots."

The lecture, sponsored by the engineering founders' societies, will be followed by a discussion period.

square feet in all, will allow the college to increase its freshman class from 36 to a maximum of 60, Dean Ireland said.

The number of graduate students that the college will be able to accept will double to include about 18, he said.

The total enrollment of the college, including undergraduates, graduates, and dental hygienists, will increase from 160 to 305.

Present college enrollment, according to Dean Ireland, is 61 freshmen, 36 sophomores, 35 juniors, 45 seniors and 25 to 30 dental hygiene students.

GOVERNMENT FUNDS

Funds for the building were provided by the state and federal governments.

The Nebraska Legislature provided $1.7 million from the state building fund levied in 1963-65.

The legislature, by providing a specific appropriation, added $143,000 to a federal contribution of $2.5 million making the total $4.4 million.

Construction of the building began in November of 1965 and the college moved in during late September of this year.

FIFTH HOME

The new building is the fifth home of the college since its founding in 1899.

It began as a private institution at 121 S. 14th St. and moved to the Farmers and Merchants Insurance Building in 1902. In 1913 the college moved to the old Oliver Theatre Building.

In 1913 the University Regents declared the college a department of the University and the Legislature of 1919 made it a University of Nebraska college.

Members of the University College of Dentistry Alumni Association will hold their annual homecoming reunion this Friday and Saturday in conjunction with the dedication.

Geologist Speaks Tuesday Night

Geologist from the California Division of Mines and Geology, Dr. James R. McNitt, will speak at 8 p.m. in room 435 of Morrill Hall.

Topic for the lecture is the use of heat and steam from the earth to generate electricity.

The program is being sponsored by the geology department, the University Research Council and the American Association of Petroleum Geologists.

Each year the Association, the largest geological organization in the world, chooses four scientists to present lectures concerning their research. Dr. McNitt will present the second program in the series. Two other lectures have been scheduled for second semester.

AWS-Mortar Board Sponsor Seminar

Featured speaker at the AWS-Mortar Board seminar Tuesday will be Dr. Doris Seward, dean of student affairs planning at the University of Kentucky.

"Your Future in Graduate School," will be presented in the Nebraska Union Ballroom at 8 p.m. Dr. Seward will consider graduate school on a nation-wide basis, covering the advantages and opportunities available for advanced degree throughout the United States.

James C. Olson, dean of graduate school at the University of Nebraska, will discuss graduate opportunities at Nebraska.

FOR UNDERGRADUATES

The seminar has been planned specifically for undergraduates, according to Susie Phelps, member of Mortar Boards.

Several University professors and graduate students representing four areas of study will conduct sessions following Dr. Seward and Dr. Olson's discussions.

Students will be able to ask specific questions regarding requirements, recommendations and advantages of graduate school.

The following areas will be represented: Humanities, philosophy, history, English; Social Sciences, economics, political science, sociology, psychology; Education; and Fine Arts, music.
