

Government Job Conference Set

A Career Opportunities Conference designed by the National Republican committee will point up the opportunities in government work available to young people, according to Mike Naeve, a Young Republican national committee man.

The conference sponsored by the University Young Republicans will open Dec. 2 at Love Library with a keynote address by Gov. Norbert Tiemann. He will be followed by three speakers who will outline career opportunities in the areas of communications, government and social work.

Included in the morning session will be a study conducted by U.S. Representative Marvin Esh from Michigan. His topic will be the conduct of a political campaign, based on personal experience.

A summary of the proceedings and issues in the 90th Congress will be presented by U.S. Representative Thomas Curtis of Missouri, a 10-year veteran in the House. His objective is to relate these issues to University students.

Following lunch at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education, conference participants will take part in one of three panel discussions.

Panels and moderators will be mainly local people including W. Joyce Ayres, advertising-public relations director for a downtown firm, and State Legislator Calista Cooper Hughes.

Naeve said the underlying purpose of the conference is to promote good will for the Republican party, adding "everyone is after the young vote."

He said similar conferences have been conducted on other campuses including Missouri and Kansas University. The whole program was started by Ray Bliss, an administrator at the University of Ohio.

Naeve predicted that in the next three or four years, Career Opportunities Conferences will spread to every college campus in the nation.

Information Night To Explain Foreign Visiting Program

An Experiment in International Living information evening will be held Thursday, Nov. 16, at 7:30 p.m. in 320, Burnett Hall.

The program, open to any college student, allows a person to visit a foreign country for two months during the summer while living with a family.

This usually includes a two-week informal tour with the host family and a week stay at the country's capital, according to Kay Rediger, who visited Denmark last summer.

The purpose of the Experiment, according to Miss Rediger, is to promote international understanding.

"Living with people is a good way to show how people really are."

During the information evening, Carol Payne, who went to Ireland last year, will show slides of that country. In addition, students who visited France, Denmark, Holland, Morocco, and Switzerland will answer questions about the program.

Three Fraternities Build New Houses Off-Campus

Beta Sigma Psi, Acacia, and Delta Sigma Phi fraternities are in the process of planning and building new chapter houses off campus.

A block of land south of Vine between 22nd and 23rd streets has been purchased and divided into quarters, according to Dick Wegener, second vice-president of Acacia.

Beta Sigma Psi will occupy the south half of the block, Acacia, the northeast quarter, and Delta Sigma Phi, the northwest section.

Wegener said that construction of the Acacia house began in October with the completion date set for April 1.

The new split-level structure will house 48 men, said Wegener. Facilities will include on the ground floor, a kitchen and laundry, dining room, living room and house mother's quarters. Second and third floors will provide 24, two-man rooms.

It is hoped that the structure at 2255 Vine will be completely framed in by next week, said Wegener.

Doug Peter, president of the Beta Sigma Psi house said that weather permitting, their new 87-man house will be ready for occupancy in April. The new $300,000 structure will be located at 2222 U street.

Peter said that parents, Beta Sigma Psi alums, the house adviser, and members of Beta Sigma Psi attended the ground breaking ceremony last Saturday. Construction is expected to begin early next week.

The new house will be a two-building structure connected by a glass inclosed walk-way, said Peter. Individual rooms with sleeping quarters will be in one wing.

The house president said a balcony will overlook the living room in the other wing. The president's room, house mother's room and a music room will be located on the balcony.

The basement will provide a chapter room and a recreation room, Peter indicated. He added that the entire house will be air-conditioned and completely carpeted.

Peter said the present Beta Sigma Psi house will be leased to another University fraternity.

Commenting on the new Delta Sigma Phi house, President Ron Colin said that the 66-man structure will be started after the November 30th ground-breaking ceremonies.

Planned features of the Delta Sigma Phi house include a formal recessed living room, an extensive chapter room and dining room, and a larger recreation room covering all of one building.

Cost of the two-story brick house is $300,000, Colin said. This does not include carpeting, drapes, and furniture costs. Occupancy will be by April, weather permitting.

Other features noted by Colin include a large lighted parking lot and patio which will be used for entertaining, and two-men study-sleeping rooms with built-in desks and cabinets.

The building will be so constructed that an additional third floor can be added when required, Colin added. Colin said that the present Delta Sigma Phi land is being sold to another fraternity or sorority.

Cox: Collegiate Pressure Increases Mental Strife

The University Mental Health Clinic has upgraded its services this year by adding a clinical psychologist and six new part time psychiatric staff members, according to Mrs. Christine F. Cox, psychiatric social worker.

All the staff, except Mrs. Cox, Mrs. Mary Munger, a clinical psychologist, a service coordinator, is made up of local psychiatrists who devote part of their time to the clinic.

The clinic usually consults about 500 University students a year, Mrs. Cox said.

"I feel that more students would come to us if the services of the clinic were better known among the students," she said.

Students treated by the clinic are first given preliminary consultation upon their arrival and later are given an appointment depending on the student's need. Mrs. Cox pointed out.

"When a student comes in, we try to see him as soon as possible if the distress is acute. We don't have a waiting list, but rather try to see students on a first come basis," she said.

In the three years that Mrs. Cox has been with the clinic here she has noted an increase in the number of students treated.

The increase can be attributed to the growing student population, but it is difficult to determine if the increase is also influenced by such things as added pressure," she said.

The mental health division of the University health center has been functioning on campus for about 15 years.

During most of this time the staff has represented the classic mental health triad of psychiatry, psychology, and social work, Mrs. Cox said.

She pointed out that these three professions provide complementary services such as casework, psychological evaluation, psychiatric evaluation, psychotherapy, medication and group therapy.

"College years are likely to be ones of emotional turmoil because of the stress and strain caused by new environment, new ideas, new people, more competition, and more scholastic pressure," Mrs. Cox commented.

"Prompt action can often prevent the development of more serious problems and ease the anxiety of the student," she said.

"The clinic is interested in the general problems of emotional and mental health which confront all University students," Mrs. Cox said.

Camaro SS Coupe

'68 Camaro:
Accelerates smoother, hugs the road tighter, rides quieter than ever before.

A quiet car speaks for itself. That's why Chevrolet went all out to make the '68 Camaro smoother, steadier and more silent than ever. Camaro's famous road-hugging performance has been improved with a refined suspension system. Camaro's big-car ride has been improved, too. Soft rubber cushions snuff out road noise and vibrations. Even Camaro's new Astro Ventilation works for your peace and quiet. Adjustable vent-ports built in the instrument panel let outside air circulate without wind or noise. You don't even have to open a window! It all adds up to the silent ride of quality. See for yourself. Put a hushed '68 Camaro through its paces at your Chevrolet dealer's.

All these Chevrolet quality features, too:

- Utilized all-welded Body by Fisher.
- Power team choices up to a 396-cubic-inch V8.
- Self-adjusting Safety-Master brakes with dual cylinders.

• An automatic buzzer that reminds you to take your keys with you.

• Proved safety features like the GM-developed energy-absorbing steering column and many new ones that include armrest-shielded door handles.
