

EYE APPEAL . . . aids taste appeal in Selleck's remodeled food service.

Wegner: Eye Appeal Aids Taste Appeal

Eye appeal aids taste appeal, according to Ellen Wegner, production manager of the newly remodeled Selleck Quadrangle dining hall. Miss Wegner said that the atmosphere created by the remodeling job helps to make the cafeteria more intimate and less like an institution. "We're striving to get away from an army barracks type atmosphere," she explained.

Commenting on the quality of the food, Miss Wegner felt that an improvement had been made this year. "One thing that many young people don't understand is that cooking for 600 is different than cooking for 6," she stated. "The remodeled cafeteria makes for a nicer place to live," commented Brad Kaufman, a Selleck resident. "It's a considerable improvement," added Dave

Butain, "and it is much warmer and less institutionalized."

Cadets Pick First Beret Sweetheart

The Scarlet Berets, an Army ROTC organization of exceptional cadets, awarded Kathryn Bredthauer of Pound Hall the honor of being the scarlet beret's first sweetheart. Miss Bredthauer was awarded the honorary rank of major during the presentation held Monday. Jane Johnson, Kappa Alpha Theta, was selected as the runner up. The sweetheart and runner up were selected two weeks ago from a field of five finalists. Other finalists were Deborah Cushman, Kappa Alpha Theta, Diana Casper, Smith Hall and Alana Vahlkamp, Alpha Omicron Pi. All contestants were selected from the 60-member pledge class of the Cadence Countesses. Winners were chosen by the scarlet beret staff members.

Two NU Students Participate In Stillman College Exchange

Next semester two University of Nebraska students will participate in an exchange program with Stillman College in Tuscaloosa, Ala., according to Margaret Van Cleve, chairman of the ASUN exchange program committee. She said this will be the first semester for Nebraska students to enroll at Stillman with the exchange program, although the University hosted two Stillman students first semester last year. She added that as interest grows, ASUN hopes to expand the program to every semester. Stillman College is a fully accredited school and all credits, a C or above, will transfer, said the committee chairman. Stillman is a small private Negro college with an enrollment of 690. "ASUN was very pleased with the number of applicants for the exchange," said Miss Van Cleve. "In addition to the students that applied for next semester, a number of students unable to participate next semester indicated interest for the future," she said. Thursday, three members of the ASUN exchange program committee and Russell Brown, associate dean of student affairs, will meet with the applicants to discuss the program, said Miss Van Cleve. Brown will then hold individual conferences with the applicants to determine how they would respond in various situations, she added. The committee will choose two students and two alternates for the program, according to Miss Van Cleve. These students must meet the 2.5 grade average requirement to be eligible but they may be any year in school, she said. Miss Van Cleve said that a proposal is now before the University Regents asking them to waive tuition for the exchange students coming to Nebraska.
