

Career Opportunities Conference Offered

Students who live outside Nebraska or who want to work outside the state should consider attending the Career Opportunities Conferences offered in many parts of the country, according to Frank Hallgren, placement director.

A number of communities offer these conferences during the Christmas vacation to acquaint college students from their area with local job opportunities, he said.

Hallgren explained that the conferences generally bring interested students into contact with employers from business and government. Many of the conferences are presented by local Chambers of Commerce.

He said the conferences can be of particular value in a specific area, since that area may not send many recruiters to the Nebraska campus.

Among the conferences planned in the Midwestern area are ones for Greater Des Moines, greater Kansas City, Minnesota, Kansas and Oklahoma, he said, calling students attention to the one in New York City too.

Hallgren urged students interested in learning about the holiday career programs to contact the Placement Office for further information.

World Reports

Democratic Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy from Minnesota announced Thursday that he plans to enter the Nebraska presidential primary race next year opposing President Johnson.

McCarthy added that he will also compete in elections to be held in Wisconsin, Oregon and California, and possibly in New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

The senator commented that a good chance exists to win two or three of the primaries, and added that he also thinks that conditions are favorable for the nomination of a democratic presidential candidate other than LBJ in the 1968 election.

Nebraska state democratic chairman John C. Mitchell received the news with the statement that chances for a democratic victory in the general elections will be more favorable if party support is directed solidly toward President Johnson.

He added, however, that McCarthy's challenge could have valuable side effects concerning the resolution of the Viet Nam question. McCarthy's platform, Mitchell said, will prove that there is substantial backing for the President.

Former Gov. Frank B. Morrison and National Committee-woman Maurine Biegert both remarked that the Democratic Party is broad enough for a variety of thought and opinion, but it will unite for an election.

Soviet Premier Alexei I. Kosygin in conference with Swedish Foreign Minister Thorsten Nilsson announced Thursday that the U.S. is risking war through the refusal to halt bombing in North Viet Nam.

Kosygin explained that the temperature in the world is high and dangerous, and U.S. war policy is contributing to the fever pitch. International relations will continue to be tense and strained until the bombing ceases, he said.

The Premier maintained that negotiation and peace talks are impossible until the U.S. capitulates concerning the issue of the bomb.

Defense Secretary Robert McNamara announced Wednesday that he will resign his position to accept the directors' offer to serve as president of the World Bank.

President Johnson commented that, "I shall miss him greatly as a member of my cabinet." He added that McNamara's efforts to fulfill his duties have been unexcelled.

Rumors that the resignation is part of a plan to escalate the Viet Nam War were denied by LBJ. He commented that defense policies are defined, and the course of action set.

The President added that McNamara will retain his position long enough to complete budget work for the fiscal year 1969. The Secretary commented that he is willing to remain as long as necessary.

President Johnson remarked that McNamara told him sometime ago that he felt that his position would benefit from the appointment of a new Secretary.

He added that he would not be justified in asking Secretary McNamara to continue "the enormous burdens of his position indefinitely."

Americans face possible disaster of tyranny if Congress does not restore its limitations on presidential power, the Foreign Relations Committee said this week.

The Committee recommends that resolutions sought by a president should be debated before Congress, so that the political body fully defines its projected action.

The report cited LBJ's escalation of the Viet Nam War as an example of future danger.

—Christian Science Monitor

The possibility that Republican Richard Nixon presidential primary next year would place him in competition with Governor Reagan, the state's favorite son.

Politicians conclude that it would also split party unity, strengthened with the election of Reagan in 1966. Although most Republicans deny that Nixon will enter the race, latest California polls show 38% backing for him.

Unique Graduate Series . . . NU To Participate In Program On Biomedical Communications

By GARY GILLEN
 Junior Staff Writer

The University will participate in a unique national biomedical communications graduate program next Merch to improve the public relations aspects of the biomedical field.

The program will end in June with the presentation of a masters degree to persons completing the studies.

The students will study at six different institutions learning different aspects of medicine and communications, according to Mrs. Reba Benschoter, coordinator of the program for the University Medical Center in Omaha.

The program is financed for three years by the National Library of Medicine. A $5,000 grant from the Smith, Kline and French Foundation was awarded to help finance training in Nebraska.

"The program will help satisfy the urgent need for specialists in the art of biomedical communications," Mrs. Benschoter said.

The need for these specialists has been expressed by medical schools, industry and the government, she pointed out.

The Nebraska program will deal with teaching of writing techniques, the practice and application of closed circuit television and the role of medicine and health today.

The students will also attend a seminar dealing with legal and medical problems and communication advances while in Nebraska.

At Georgia Tech they will study computer science, at Emory University they will study library science.

The eight students enrolled in this year's program are presently studying at Tulane University School of Medicine.

Other schools on the circuit besides Nebraska include Emory University School of Medicine, Georgia Tech School of Information Sciences the Public Health Service Audio-visual Facility and the National Library of Medicine in Bethesda, Md.

"The students are studying at different institutions because there is no one place that is strong enough in all these fields. The program takes advantage of the strong points of each school," Mrs. Benschoter said.

Nebraska was chosen for its closed circuit TV and journalism programs, she noted.

Classes from the University School of Journalism will be held two days a week at the Medical Center.

Candidates are selected on a national basis according to education and experience in medicine and communications.

A candidate must have a Ph.D. a masters or a bachelors degree with some experience to be considered for admittance.

In addition, the students will spend two weeks in Washington, D.C., observing the government agencies and how they are involved in the communications field.

Foundation To Present Folk Mass

Members of the University Wesley Foundation will present a Folk Mass Sunday at the United Methodist Chapel during the 9:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. services.

The Mass is a celebration of the Holy Communion with a folk setting, complete with guitar music. Rehearsals for the congregation will be held Sunday at 9 a.m. and 10:30 a.m.

The Mass has developed from the tradition that the church seeks to present the word of God in every age in a language that people will understand.

The service provides the congregation with the traditional worship in modern words and music. Sunday's program will include songs such as "In Christ There is No East or West" and "I Walk the King's High Way."

WHAT DO THE THETA XI'S HAVE THAT'S BETTER THAN A GUITAR?

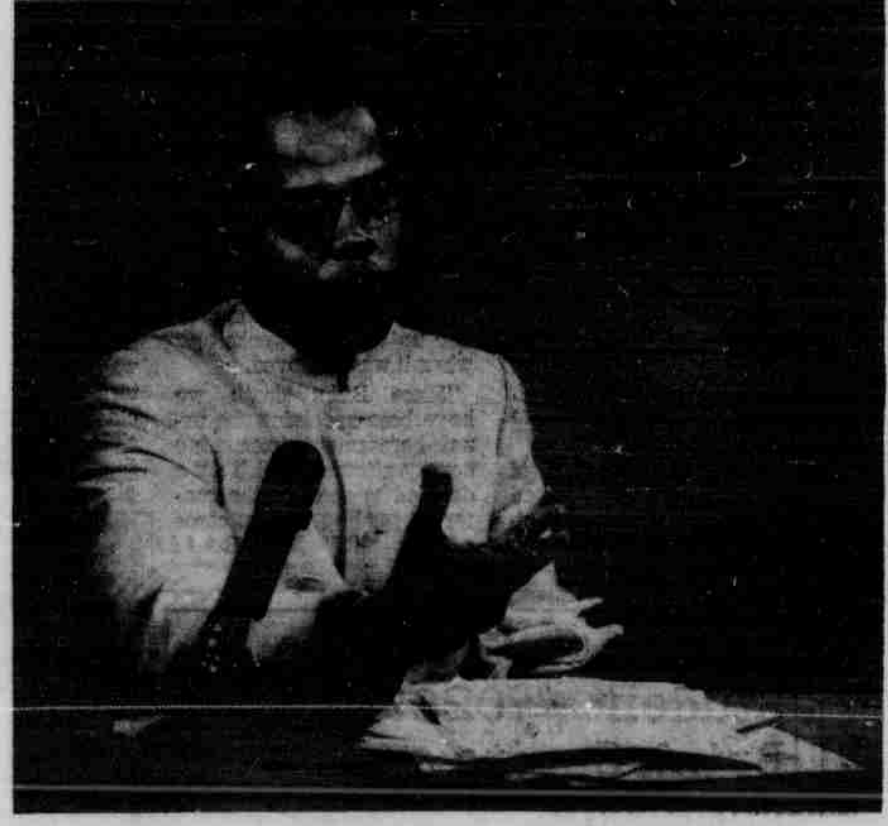

The Theta Xi's won the November record contest at the Captain's Walk. Congratulations men! We at the Walk are happy for the winners, but we also think the losers deserve another chance.

DON'T GIVE UP . . .
YOUR HOUSE CAN WIN THIS MONTH

So . . . you guessed it . . . we're having another contest during December. The rules are the same, but the prize is more spectacular: in addition to $100 worth of Columbia records of your choice, your winning purchases will make ideal Christmas gifts. How can you lose?

Who does he think he is, Patrick Henry?

You'd better believe it. If only because he does. That's enough for his countrymen: belief in him And in Liberty.

The Spirit of '76 . . . in '67
 It won't take him as long as it took us To be heard;
 To be listened to.

The United Nations will see to that: His vote, as big as ours
 Or Russia's or Holland's will see to that. Which was the whole idea in San Francisco Wasn't it?
 You, of all people, must believe it. You are our life insurance.
