Ross: University Not Asking For Undercover Agents

The University has not requested undercover agents from the State Patrol Drug Control Division, nor does it intend to ask them, according to G. Robert Ross, dean of student affairs.

Earlier this week Col. James E. Kruger, patrol chief, said the patrol has received requests from several educational institutions throughout the state for undercover agents.

Ross said it is not up to the University to determine whether it needs the agents. The patrol will decide where and when the agents will be placed.

"The University is not planning to ask for agents, but will discuss the matter with the patrol if contacted," Ross said.

CREATED THIS YEAR

The patrol's drug control division was created this year by a legislative act introduced by Scottsbluff Sen. Terry Carpenter.

The act provides for controlling the manufacture, distribution, delivery or possession of depressant, stimulant, hallucinogenic and counterfeit drugs.

The drug control division is supported by a $50,000 yearly appropriation from the state.

State Attorney General Clarence Meyer, dispelled a controversy over the use of undercover agents by saying their legality has been proven repeatedly.

"The use of undercover agents has been tested and upheld literally hundreds of times in both state and federal courts, whether it be used in marijuana or murder cases," Meyer said.

U.S. COURT

He added that in a recent U.S. Supreme Court case it was upheld that authorities need not divulge the name of the informant when someone is apprehended by this means.

Early in November a University student withdrew from school because of alleged use and possession of marijuana. No charges were filed against him by the county attorney's office.

AUF Drive Now Up To $4,300; Fund Collection To Continue

Student solicitors have collected nearly $4,300 thus far in the annual All University Fund drive (AUF), but total receipts are still below last year's totals, according to Rick Russell, AUF treasurer.

Russell said he expects AUF to give about $900 to each of five charities, but he added that this is below the $1,050 given to each last year.

He attributed the difference to the AUF drive which was not as successful this year as last. He said profits this year totaled $50 compared to $850 last year. The Colorado football game and poor weather prevented a larger turnout, he added.

MONEY STILL OUT

"I think the drive has been successful as a whole, but there is still a lot of money yet to be collected, especially on the fraternity drives," Russell said.

Farmhouse leads the fraternity drive with a $122.90 contribution. Russell said the goal is $1,200, and $412 has been collected so far. Last year's total fraternity drive netted $811.

The top sorority contribution came from Alpha Xi Delta at $160.85 with honorable mention going to Delta Gamma ($142) and Chi Omega ($141). The $1,500 goal was reached as compared to $1,435 received last year.

Contributions from men's dormitories are still coming in to add to the $510 already collected. Russell said he hopes the $750 goal is reached to top last year's total of $549.

INDEPENDENT WOMEN

Russell is optimistic about independent women contributions, estimating they will reach the $800 mark. The $556 received thus far is well above last year's total of $378 and the goal of $600 moves closer.

The East Campus drive has probably been the most successful because the dormitory population has remained constant, according to Russell. This year $310.50 was collected as compared to $284.50 last year.

Organization contributions come to $100. The drive is continuing and appears to be going successfully as early contributions seem to indicate, Russell said. The $350 goal was

The Other Half

A panel discussion concerning "Sororities and Fraternities, Are They Serving the Students?" will be presented Wednesday at 9 p.m. on KUON-TV, channel 12.

Panel members will include Kathy Kuester, representative of Panhellenic, Bruce Giles, editor of the Daily Nebraskan, Brian Ridour, president of IDA and Russell Brown, associate dean of student affairs.

The New Folk, professional folk singing group, will appear in Lincoln at Pershing Auditorium Dec. 9 at 8 p.m. The two hour concert is sponsored by the Campus Crusade for Christ.

Tickets are on sale in the Nebraska Union and at Pershing Auditorium for $1.50, $2.25 and $2.75.

A Christmas Concert by the University Madrigal Singers will be presented Dec. 12 at 7:30 p.m. in the Nebraska Union Ballroom.

University Theater will perform "A Delicate Balance," Edward Albee's Pulitzer Prize-winning drama, Dec. 8 and 9 at Howell Memorial Theater. Performances begin at 8 p.m.

The Union Weekend film for Dec. 8 and 10 will be "The Finest Hour." Showings will be given at the Union Friday at 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. and Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Sheldon Art Gallery's foreign film program will feature a Spanish film, "Death of a Cyclist" Dec. 6. The movie, starring Alberto Closas and Lucia Bose under the direction of Juan Bardem, was awarded the Cannes Festival Prize.

The story concerns two people who unintentionally cause the death of another and must learn to live with their deed. "The Smile" a short film by Serge Bourguignon, will also be shown.

Architectural plans and 150 photographs prepared by the French ministry of culture are on display at Architectural Hall until Dec. 14.

The collection illustrates a comparative study of French architecture from the Romanesque period until today, including examples such as the use of stone for military, civil, and religious monuments.

The final lecture in a series of discussions of "Philosophical Alternatives to Christianity" will be sponsored by the Canterbury Club Dec. 6 at 7:30 p.m. Charles Peek, who received his Master's Degree in philosophy will present the lecture.

The Lutheran Fellowship will present a program Dec. 10 at 6:30 p.m. entitled "Invest Yourself This Summer." Students who worked last summer in service projects will explain the opportunities in this field.

A special service, "Christmas Happenings," will be sponsored by UMHE Sunday at 10:45 a.m. At 6:45 p.m. Charles Stephen of the Unitarian Church will speak about "What Are Your Civil Liberties?"

Members of the Wesley Foundation who "lived in" at Omaha's near north side last weekend will speak about their experiences Sunday at 6:30 p.m. The program will be held at the Foundation.

NU-OU Merger Follow Med School Pattern

"shot-gun" approach to educational legislation.

Carpenter led the argument for the bill, defending it through the Education Committee and through the rest of the legislative process.

Rallying support for the measure, which was eventually approved by the Unicameral by a vote of 31-18, Carpenter gave the bill a well-represented kickoff in the Education Committee, chaired by Sen. Lester Harsh.

Dr. Clayton Yeutter, assistant to Gov. Norbert Tiemann, presented the opening round of arguments for the proposal while speaking in behalf of the Governor.

"We feel that the University of Nebraska at Omaha is the answer to the problem . . . (of educating) thousands and thousands of students graduating from high school in that city over the next ten or twenty years," Yeutter said in last April's committee meetings.

... and within a very few short years," he added, "the student population at the school will probably exceed that of the University of Nebraska in Lincoln."

Many others appeared at the committee hearings, including Robert Spire, president of Board of Regents of OU. Spire supported the merger, presenting petitions from Omaha citizens in favor of the combination.

"The University of Omaha Board of Regents has reached an agreement with the University of Nebraska Board of Regents," Spire said, "as evidenced in this merger bill primarily for one reason.

"That is, this in our opinion represents a first very sound step in coordination of higher education in the state of Nebraska."

Also appearing in support of the merger bill were Dr. Kirk Naylor, president of OU and Edward Schwartzkopf, member of the NU Board of Regents, who represented the entire Board.

NU Chancellor Clifford Hardin also spoke in favor of LB736, which was approved 6-0 by the Education Committee before going to the legislature.

Conflict on the floor of Unicameral centered around concepts of approaching education. Pedersen argued for the coordinating committee; Carpenter and others claimed that the two bills LB736 and LB661 were not relevant to each other.

The merger was finally approved, but only after a preceding vote struck the emergency clause, which would have made the provisions law immediately.

Without the emergency clause, the bill was not law until three months after its April 27 approval by Gov. Tiemann.

Now, the merger needs only the approval of the Omahans to be effected.

A SUBSIDIARY OF PROCTER & GAMBLE

We will interview engineers for positions in Manufacturing Management . . . BS and MS degrees in CHE, CE, IE, EE, ME, Pulp and Paper Technology, and MBA's with BS in any technical discipline

WEDS. DEC. 13

Papermaking is booming! Already a giant among U.S. industries, papermaking is still growing rapidly. New ideas, new products, new manufacturing processes have catapulted it into the country's tenth biggest industry. Be part of it!

Engineers are in the forefront of this activity at Charmin, 7 times the rate for the total industry. At Charmin, engineers are seeing their own new ideas pay off for the Company as well as for themselves. The doors are wide open to new and better ways of doing things, as new markets are being opened, and sales in existing markets increase.

At Charmin you can expect: • Substantial responsibility within a short time after you join us • Outstanding advancement opportunities, with promotion only from within, based on merit • Personal training for each new assignment and immediate responsibility to help you develop quickly. Your progress will be closely followed, since our technically trained management group is less than 500.

Choice of three locations: Green Bay, Wisconsin; Cheboygan, Michigan; or Mehoopany, Pennsylvania (near Scranton). You'll be located in the heart of some of the greatest hunting, fishing and skiing country in the world. Sign up at your Placement Office now. We want to talk with you even though you may have commitments to Graduate School or to Military Service.
