Construction of 15th street malls to be completed by September

The construction of malls on 15th Street extending from the Nebraska State Historical Society to the Capitol Building will be completed by Sept. 26, 1968, said Dick Wood, Assistant City Attorney.

The malls, originally contracted for construction at $333,685, will now cost $409,655 with the addition of fountains and reflecting pools. Several private organizations and businesses have been affected by the closing of 15th Street. Among these are the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity house, University Lutheran Chapel, and Lloyd Hendricks, owner of two apartment buildings adjacent to 15th Street. The problem with Alpha Tau Omega and the Lutheran Chapel involves access to parking lots and driveways. Alpha Tau Omega is presently using another parking lot to reach their house.

Hendricks requested an injunction to halt construction on the malls. He claimed that the blocking of access to his apartments was detrimental to his property values. Woods said that Hendricks has been the only party to take legal action against the city. He added that negotiations are under way with property owners to find suitable alternative accesses to their property.

NU resumes plan for court revision

Plans for revising NU's court system will be resumed this semester, according to Dr. Russell Brown, associate dean of student affairs.

The revision committee, composed of representatives from the various courts on campus, adjourned earlier this month with plans to resume work second semester. Committee members agreed to return with a description of their court procedures and structure.

Brown's Concern

The committee's and Brown's concern stems from several aspects of campus court systems.

One of the problems discussed at the first semester meetings. The growing number of courts on campus has also caused the danger of multiple jeopardy within the system.

The committee feels the current system needs a court code applicable to the whole structure. The committee also agreed that the courts lack definite well planned goals.

Inconsistency

Another problem in NU's system is inconsistency in dealing with infractions. Varieties of punishments are issued for the same infraction within different living units. The present system is also lacking in a definite network for appeals.

The committee has considered several court structures from other university's and a proposal by Terry SchAAF, Justice of the ASUN Student Court, for a revised court system.

Brown hopes that the committee will serve as a study group to take recommendations back to their own courts for modification and approval.

He said the committee will probably resume work in approximately two weeks.

Student assistant applications due

Students interested in applying for student assistants may obtain applications from any residence director or at 103 Administration Building. Application deadline is Feb. 5.

Brian Ridenour . . . Executive applications for IDA must be received before Feb. 8

Candidates for Inter-Dormitory Association (IDA) president and vice-president must submit their applications before Feb. 8, IDA President Brian Ridenour announced this week.

Ridenour said he would accept applications at Cather Hall and at the IDA Council meeting at Selleck 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Qualifications

He said all aspirants in the IDA's second executive election, which is tentatively slated for either Feb. 13 or 15, must meet the following four qualifications enumerated in the IDA constitution:

- must not be a student assistant or graduate assistant.
- meet University regulations for participation in extracurricular activities.

—be a member of the Association and agree in writing to resign his position if he should terminate his membership in the Association.

—have been a resident of a University residence hall for at least one year.

The IDA constitution also states that the candidate receiving the most votes will be declared the winning candidate provided he receives at least 40 per cent of the ballots cast. If such a plurality doesn't exist, a runoff election shall be held within 10 class days between the two candidates receiving the most votes.

Both executive officers will assume office one week after their election and serve a one year term according to the constitution.

Ridenour said a six-member election committee, headed by IDA vice-president Dave Shonka, would supervise the election.

Other committeemen include Bruce Bailey, Cather Hall president; Richard Kuper, Abel Hall IDA representative; Gary Lockwood, associate justice of the Inter-Dormitory Court; Tom Pluta, Harper Hall vice-president and Ron Trecker, Selleck resident.

Official duties

Presidential duties include responsibility for the execution of all constitutional provisions, by-laws and Council legislation.

The IDA's chief executive appoints all committees, the secretary and treasurer and court members and presides at all Council meetings and has the prerogative to veto any Council legislation within eight class days after its passage.

The president also represents the Association in a ceremonial capacity and states IDA opinion before official assemblies and the public.

Vice-presidential responsibilities include coordinating the IDA committees, serving as an ex-officio member of all committees and prosecuting member dormitories or individual residents before the Inter-Dormitory court for violation of the Constitution or of any duly enacted Association legislation.

The IDA's second executive officer also assumes presidential duties if the president is absent and serves as the chief executive if the presidency is vacated.

No section changes made by personal preference

Associate Dean of Student Affairs Lee Chatfield has announced that no student can obtain a section change in drop and add unless he submits a signed statement from his employer verifying a job or work conflict.

Each student is also required to sign a statement saying that he cannot attend the University unless the section change is made, according to Chatfield.

Half-price to college students and faculty: the newspaper that newspaper people read. . .

At last count, we had more than 3,800 newspaper editors on our list of subscribers to The Christian Science Monitor. Editors from all over the world.

There is a good reason why these "pros" read the Monitor: the Monitor is the world's only daily international newspaper. Unlike local papers, the Monitor focuses exclusively on world news — the important news.

The Monitor selects the news it considers most significant and reports it, interprets it, analyzes it — in depth. It takes you further into the news than any local paper can.

If this is the kind of paper you would like to be reading, we will send it to you right away at half the regular price of $24.00 a year.

Clip the coupon. Find out why newspapermen themselves read the Monitor — and why they invariably name it as one of the five best papers in the world.
