Tryouts for three plays written and directed by University students will be held Wednesday in 303 Temple Building from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. Four female and seven male roles are available.

The plays include "The Party" by Bruce Borin, "The Aborted Moon" by Bill Turek and "The Monastery" written by Mance Williams and directed by Xan Johnson.

Tryouts for Kosmet Klub's spring presentation of "West Side Story" will be held Wednesday in the west end of second floor Nebraska Hall from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m.

"Barefoot" at Playhouse

Lincoln Community Playhouse will sponsor tryouts for the production of "Barefoot in the Park" Feb. 12, 13 and 14 from 7:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. at the Playhouse on 18th and L streets. Two female and four male parts are available.

The Playhouse will present "Tobacco Road," third production of the season, Feb. 9, 10 and 11. Performances on Feb. 9 and 10 will begin at 8:30 p.m. The performance on Feb. 11 will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Sheldon Art Gallery will present the Italian film "Rocco and his Brothers" Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. Winner of 22 awards, the film is directed by Luchino Visconti and stars Alain Delon, Renato Salvatori, Annie Girardot, Katina Paxinou, Claudia Cardinale and Suzy Delair.

"King Kong" on Sunday

Sunday's film for the High Camp Film Festival at 5:30 p.m. in the Nebraska Union will be "King Kong." Admission of one dollar includes a hamburger basket and the movie.

The weekend movie sponsored by the Union Film Committee will be "I'll Take Sweden." Showings are scheduled for 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. on Friday and 7:30 p.m. on Sunday.

"Children of Revolution," a study of Czechoslovakians under a communist government, will be shown Wednesday at 12:15 p.m. by the United Ministries in Higher Education.

"War Games" at Selleck

The film "War Games," the story of the effects of a nuclear war, will be presented Friday at 8 p.m. at Selleck, Saturday at 7 p.m. at Sheldon Auditorium and Sunday at 8 p.m. at Sheldon. Tickets for $1 are available at the Nebraska Union, the campus religious houses and at the door.

Lincoln Symphony Orchestra will present Maureen Forrester, contralto, in recital Feb. 13 at Stuart Theater at 8 p.m. Tickets are available at the National Bank of Commerce or at the door.

A concert by the Zagreb Quartet will be sponsored by the Lincoln Friends of Chamber Music Feb. 9 in Sheldon Auditorium at 8 p.m.

Quartet at Westbrook

The Quartet will appear Feb. 10 at 2:30 p.m. in room 119 Westbrook Building for a Master Class in Chamber Music and Feb. 11, also in room 119, at 3 p.m. for an open rehearsal. On Feb. 12 an open discussion at 2:30 p.m. in the orchestra room of Westbrook will be held for students and faculty with a lecture-demonstration including contemporary Yugoslav music.

American folk music performed by Roger Welsch, assistant professor at Wesleyan University, will be presented at Stuh Museum Feb. 9 at 7:30 p.m. Welsch will perform for the opening of a display on the American flag sponsored by the University Extension Division and the Museum.

Repertory theater to present 'Lear'

University Repertory Theater will present Shakespeare's tragedy, "King Lear," at Howell Theater Mar. 8, 9, 15, 16, 22 and 23, according to Bill Jamison, publicity director.

The drama is concerned with Lear's division of his kingdom among three daughters. Only one of the daughters admits that her love for her father is based upon their blood relationship, and is banished for her honesty.

It is Lear's realization that the banishment was a mistake and his metamorphosis from powerful king to weak human being that makes the tragedy one of literature's best, Jamison said.

Cast members for the production include Lear, Andrew Backer; King of France, Dave Landis; Duke of Burgundy, Phil Zinga; Duke of Cornwall, James Sellmeyer; Duke of Albany, John Jessup; Earl of Gloucester, Dana Mills; Edgar, William Jamison.

Earl of Kent, James Baffico; Edmund, William szymanski; Curan, Donald Hunter; French doctor, Bernard Durand; Lear's fool, Ric Marsh; Oswald, Christopher Ballant; Captain, Terry McClellan; Gentleman, Albert Lundby; Servant, Terry Weymouth.

Goneril, Laura Uradevenicz; Regan, Kathy Baines; Cordelia, Sue Vosik.

UMHE institutes 'Soup Kitchen'

Abortion, homosexuality and a study of subcultures will be explored in a series of film previews and discussions instituted by the United Ministries in Higher Education (UMHE).

The program, dubbed the "Soup Kitchen," will be held Wednesdays at 12:15 p.m. at UMHE and includes a substitute meal as well as the presentation of a film, according to Bill Phillips, campus minister.

The schedule of films which will be previewed and discussed includes "Children of the Revolution," a study of the first generation of Czechoslovakians to grow up under a communist administration. The film will be shown Wednesday.

The Hangman

"The Hangman," a color fantasy based on a poem by Maurice Ogden, will be presented Feb. 14. The film, set in a small town, deals with the problem of immobility in the face of political, economic and social abuse.

Variety of countries, programs represented in Union film series

From East to West—from India to England—come the films which will be presented at the University this semester sponsored by the Nebraska Union film committee. Comedy, melodrama and "straight" performances from a variety of foreign countries are represented in the projected program.

"To Die in Madrid," French film directed by Frederic Rossif and starring John Gielgud, Irene Wirth, William Hutt and George Gonzeau, will be shown Feb. 14.

Documentary from newsreels

The film is a documentary assembled from American, French, English, Russian and German newsreels which deal with the Spanish civil war. Director Rossif describes "Madrid" as a "film of remembrance, a cinematic epic poem."

Critics have noted particularly the objectivity with which Rossif depicts both the courage and the atrocities of both sides and the lyric quality of the script, written by Madeleine Chapsal and translated by Helen Scott.

The "Hollywood craze" of the 30's and 40's transplanted to the emerging movie-making industry in India is the subject of "Shakespeare Wallah," to be presented Feb. 28.

Social situation

The film is described as dealing with real people in a real social situation—in this case, touring actors of the serious theater facing ruin when their audience retreats to the white cadillacs and polo coats of the pretty boy and capricious prime donna types.

"Shakespeare Wallah" is directed by James Ivory and stars the Kendal family, Madhur Jaffrey and Shashi Kapoor.

Selections from the coverage of 117 cameras at the Wembley finale constitute the English film "Goal," produced by Octovio Senoret and directed by Abidine Dino and Ross Devenish.

This film, to be shown Mar. 6, is considered by critics to be a successful extension of one's knowledge and understanding of the event. "Goal" is described as the "human race in action."

French chateau

An isolated French chateau—a procrastinating Frenchman, his beautiful and bored wife and an up-and-coming military man contribute to the story of "La Vie de Chateau," scheduled to be presented Mar. 27.

Action in the film shifts quickly from Major Klopstock to the Wehrmacht to Marie (beautiful, but now revitalized) in an unpretentious farce, according to Richard Schicke of "Life" magazine.

Henri Garcin, Carlos Thompson and Catherine De-neuve star in the film which is directed by Jean-Paul Rappeneau.

Vance Packard . . . Best-selling author to speak

Vance Packard, author of best-sellers such as "The Hidden Persuaders" and "The Status Seekers," will appear at the University Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in the Nebraska Union Ballroom as part of the Speaker-Artist Series.

The author, described as "the man who investigates tomorrow today," released the first book in his series of best-sellers in 1957. "The Hidden Persuaders" is a study of motivational research techniques that explains the method of persuasion in depth advertising to the American public.

"The Status Seekers," an analysis of class structure in America followed in 1957. Packard reached the best sellers quota again in 1960 with "The Waste Makers," cited as a sharp warning to the American citizens concerning waste-encouraging commercialism.

The author continued his pace with "The Pyramid Climbers" published in 1962. The book is an examination of the prerequisites for executive success in modern America.

Most recent publication by Packard is "The Naked Society," a study of 'people-watchers'—the investigators who inspect and control U.S. citizens.

Articles by Packard have appeared in almost all leading periodicals, such as "The Atlantic Monthly," Reader's Digest," "Look," "The Saturday Evening Post," "Harper's" and "The New York Times Magazine."

Critics note Packard's ability to investigate and prepare concise conclusions of modern trends which endanger individual liberty. In fact, his observations are so accurate that they become phrases coined by Packard become household words almost overnight.

The author, a native of Pennsylvania, graduated from Columbia University with a master's degree in journalism and worked as a newspaperman in Boston and New York for five years before his first book-length publication.

Love triangle

"Cul de Sac," directed by Roman Polanski with Donald Pleasence and Francoise Dorleac, is the English film to be shown April 24. A retired industrialist, his wife and an American gangster contribute to the love triangle dealt with by Polanski in the film.

Critic Wilfred Sheed of "Esquire" described the movie as a "parody of a love triangle, in which all emotions are inverted and all the connections missing."

Gunnel Lindblom, Gunnar Bjornstrand, Gio Petre and Harriet Andersson star in the Polish film "Loving Couples," scheduled for May. 8. The movie is concerned with three women and the experiences which have caused them to hate men.

Describing the movie and director Mai Zetterling's work "Time" magazine reviewers wrote, "She times her surprises so effectively that moviegoers of all sexes, married or single, will have no trouble staying awake."

Ah, yes Valentine's Day . . . the most sentimental day of all (except Mother's Day, of course). You may care for, perhaps even Love, someone every day of the year, but you may not be bold enough to let him or her know of your feeling, or you may be one who (dare I say it?) takes his loved-one for granted. How sad. But rejoice! Valentine's Day, traditionally the day for giving love-tokens, is upon us. So summon courage timid souls, and be thoughtful, inconsiderate ones! Take it upon yourself to make your special-someone happy this February 14th. And while wandering in search of the ideal moment, may I suggest you stop in at Gold's and examine our fine selection of Valentine cards, candies, jewelry, apparel and perfume.
