Packard to speak at Union

Vance Packard, the author who "investigates tomorrow today" will speak at 3:30 in the Union ballroom.

His ability to recognize modern situations that endanger personal liberty are evident in his best sellers such as "The Hidden Persuaders" which points out the psychological research that goes into advertising, according to critics.

American class structure is studied in his 1957 novel, "The Status Seekers." Other books he has published are "The Waste Makers," "The Pyramid Climbers," and "The Naked Society."

A Columbia University graduate with his M.A. in journalism, Packard has worked for papers in New York and Boston in addition to writing for many periodicals.

Med School admittance testing set

Students who wish to apply for admission to any medical school in the fall of 1969 must take the Medical College Admission Test either on May 4 or October 19 of this year.

According to Paul A. Landolt, chairman of the pre-medical advisory committee, those who wish to take the examination on May 4 must have their application forms completed and returned to New York before April 19, 1968.

Special Sunday testing centers will be set up on May 5 and October 20 for those whose religious convictions prevent them from taking the examination on Saturday. The application forms for the special Sunday test must be turned in before March 29, 1968.

Under a new policy each examinee will now be informed of his test results.

Application forms for the test can be obtained from the premedical advisor or from Dr. Landolt, 109 Bessey Hall.

AWS constitution approved; ratification election to follow

by Jan Parks Senior Staff Writer

With Tuesday's approval by the AWS Board, the newly-revised AWS constitution is now in final preparation for the AWS ratification election.

The board's approval marks the end of four months of constitutional revision by the AWS constitutional convention, which is composed of delegates elected from living units.

The document is now being prepared for the AWS ratification election after Coed Follies (Feb. 23), according to Nancy Coufal Hungerford, AWS constitutional convention chairman.

Minor recommendations

She explained that minor recommendations made by the board will be considered at the final constitutional convention meeting Thursday.

AWS workers will distribute about one thousand copies of the constitution to the living units, Mrs. Hungerford said, to introduce AWS members to the content of the document before the ratification election, which will be held in the living units.

She explained that AWS members would be voting to accept or reject the Constitution in total.

Board's approval

Susie Sitorius, judicial vice-president, said that the Board's approval of the constitution is probably the most important action that AWS has taken this year.

"Most of the energy of AWS this year has been directed toward the revision of the constitution," agreed Ann Windle, AWS president.

Miss Sitorius felt that giving each living unit a voice in the revision of the constitution was "a concrete example of the efforts of AWS to identify with all of the women students on the University campus."

She said that the delegates to the constitutional convention had adequately conveyed the ideas of AWS members. She was confident that the constitution will be ratified later this month.

Although almost all of the board members were in favor of the constitution's passage, there was some discussion.

AWS Board debate centered around the required membership clause. This clause states that all University undergraduate women are automatically members of AWS.

Voluntary membership

Elaine Kallos asked the board to consider the possibility of having voluntary membership in AWS. She said that voluntary membership would prevent attempts by women to renounce their AWS membership. (Diane Hicks attempted to renounce her AWS membership last year.)

Miss Kallos said that voluntary membership into AWS would make AWS a stronger organization of hard-core and interested people. Miss Kallos' suggestion was given a negative response by board members.

Miss Helen Snyder, associate dean of student affairs and an AWS adviser, explained that automatic membership in AWS hinges on two points:

—No girl is exempt from AWS rules, whether she is a member of AWS or not.

—There are no obligations of AWS membership. Members are not required to pay dues.

AWS benefits

"AWS gives girls only benefits," Miss Snyder explained. "An AWS member can vote for AWS officers and can participate in any number of program areas."

The Board also discussed provisions in the constitution giving the AWS Congress (the body to replace AWS Board if the new constitution goes into effect) power to remove members for non-attendance.

The revised constitution says that congress may expel members for two unexcused absences.

One board member expressed concern that girls might attend AWS congress meetings only to be marked present, and not to contribute anything to the meeting.

The AWS president countered that some sort of attendance requirement is necessary for a cohesive organization.

Program vice-president Steph Tinan said, "It is impossible to conduct an organization by telephone."

The attendance requirement is needed because "each congress member will have a responsibility to her constituents, who should be guaranteed representation in congress."

Engineer Breaks Through Technical-Reading Barrier

Bill Anderson is an engineer for the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation. In his profession he is confronted with a tremendous amount of technical material. It's no wonder that he enrolled in a rapid reading course. Bill is not a naturally fast reader. He started the Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics course as an average student, reading about 300 words per minute, and increased his speed over 6 1/2 times. Mechanical devices are not used in the method, and Bill was able to practice directly on material he had to read. He says, "I can now read my technical material at 2,000 words per minute, with good comprehension." Being a fast, efficient reader, Bill has more time to devote to his wife and two children, time for skiing and fishing. He even has time to relax and read just for pleasure.

Bill is but one of 300,000 successful graduates of Reading Dynamics, from all walks of life who have found the answers to their particular reading needs.

Attend a free demonstration to learn more about the Evelyn Wood method. You may not learn to read as fast as Bill Anderson (and then again, you might) but the nationally-known Reading Dynamics guarantees that you'll at least triple your reading speed with good comprehension — or receive a full tuition refund.

The generation that's running the show right now
Is everything you say it is.
It makes war,
Persecutes minorities, wallows in hypocrisy
And abominates your idols.
But it is a good many things
You sometimes forget it is, as well. It's Tom Dooley, Dag Hammarskjöld, Jack Kennedy.
It is concepts: the Peace Corps, Ecumenism.
The United Nations, Civil Rights.
It is awesome technology, inspired research, ennobling dreams.
You can take credit for
None of its accomplishments.
Blame for none of its sins.
But the time is near when
The terrible responsibility will be Yours.
You can stand on the shoulders of this generation
And reach for the stars
Quite literally. Or
You can keep to the ground
Snapping at its heels.
It's your choice.
You're the candidates of the future.
You are our life insurance.
