

NU goes ahead in tight Big Eight race

Huskers smash K-State, 92-68 before SRO crowd in Coliseum

By George Kaufman Sports Editor

The Nebraska Cornhuskers, playing one of their most superb basketball games before a sellout crowd of 8,650 at the Coliseum Saturday night, smashed a good Kansas State team, 92-68, and moved into sole possession of first place in the Big Eight.

The defeat was the worst ever suffered by Tex Winter's Wildcats.

K-State came into the game leadlocked with the Huskers and Iowa State at the top of the league race, but Oklahoma took care of Iowa State at Norman and Joe Cipriano's team took care of the rest.

Kansas Back

Kansas had been in on the deadlock earlier after they had gotten past Colorado at Boulder in the weekly TV contest, 75-72, but fell to a half-game back with the NU win. Kansas State moved into a al as the team left the floor, but they hadn't seen anything yet.

Note to Clip

Whatever happened in the Nebraska dressing room between halves, I hope Cipriano remembers it after this.

Tom Baack, Lantz and Grattopp came out and gave the Coliseum crowd a superb shooting performance as they combined for 23 points in the first 7½ minutes while the NU defense clamped the frustrated Wildcats down with just 10.

From there on out, it was a team effort all the way, as Nebraska rolled out to a lead of as many as 27 points and outscored K-State in the second half by 50-36.

With the score at 85-58 with 4½ minutes left, Cip sent in the subs and the cold Wildcats could only fight up to the final 24-point margin.

Lantz wound up game leader at 24 points, while Baack had 23. Grattopp 15 and Tom Scantlebury 14.

"Our press helped," said Cipriano, "and so did our speed." And so did a 50 per cent night from the field.

Next weekend the Frank Sevine's Huskers will travel to Boulder to meet CU and then to Ames Feb. 24 for a dual with Iowa State.

NU trackmen now triumphant over two Big 8 teams

... defeat Oklahoma State 87-35

By BONNIE BONNEAU Sports Assistant

Indoor trackmen have now defeated two of the seven other teams in the conference, and they have two more to meet in duals before meeting the final three at the indoor championships in Kansas City, Mo., March 1 and 2.

Next weekend the Frank Sevine's Huskers will travel to Boulder to meet CU and then to Ames Feb. 24 for a dual with Iowa State.

Easy win

Last weekend the Huskers had an easy win over Oklahoma State, 87-35. Records fell in six events and were tied in one as the Scarlet and Cream finished first in all but two events.

Senior Steve Krebs re-wrote three records with his 6' 10½" high jump. This replaced the stadium record of 6' 10" set by George Loughridge of New Mexico last year. He also bettered his own team record, and the meet record.

Clifton Forbes, Jamaican junior, was a double winner in the 60 and 440-yard dash. He erased the stadium and meet records with a 48.9 run. He won the 60 in 6.3.

The mile and 1,000-yard runs produced another double winner as senior Les Hellbusch set a new meet record with his 2:15.9 1,000.

Somomeres Joe Orduna and Dan Morran also added to the meet records. Orduna tied the meet record in the 60-yard low hurdles with a 6.9 and Morran wiped out the 880-yard run record with a 1:54.7.

Shot-putter Dennis Hagin joined the group of record breakers with a 54' 8½" throw.

The only two events which the Cowboy's won were the 60-yard high hurdles and the broad jump where Hall Oswald set a new meet record with his 24' 1¼" jump.

Other Husker winners were Boyd Epley in the pole vault, Hugh McGovern in the 600-yard dash and Mel Campbell in the two-mile-run.

brief lead at 19-15 with Nick Pino and Earl Seyfert hitting early, but Stu Lantz hit a short jumper with 6:39 to go in the first half and Grattopp followed from the corner and Nebraska jumped out to a 31-24 lead which was to start it all off.

In the closing five minutes of the half, the Huskers outscored their visitors 13-6 for a 42-32 intermission bulge. The crowd roared it's approv-

"I wanted to work for a small company. It may sound crazy, but that's why I went with IBM"

"When I was in school, I dreaded the thought of working for some huge company where I'd be just another number," says IBM's Jim Hamilton. (Jim, who has a B.S. in Electrical Engineering, is a Systems Engineering Manager in Marketing.)

"At the same time, I knew there were definite advantages in working for a large firm. So as I interviewed each company, I checked into the degree of individuality I could expect there.

"One of the main reasons I picked IBM was their decentralization. They've got over 300 locations throughout the country. Which to me means a big company with a small-company atmosphere."

IBM's small team concept
"Actually, there's plenty of decentralization even within each location. For instance, in science and engineering, they use a small team concept. It means, no matter how large the project, you work individually or as part of a small team—about four or five people.

"In marketing, I was pretty much my own boss even before I became a manager. As a systems engineer, it's up to you to find the solution to a customer's problem, and then see it's carried out in the optimum way. You work with the customer every step of the way."

There's a lot more to the IBM story than Jim has mentioned. For more information, visit your campus placement office or send an outline of your interests and educational background to I. C. So you'll be 1-A. You're still A-1 with Armstrong.

Let's be realistic—you may be serving in the military later on. But why just mark time until something happens? Facing the draft is no reason to be unemployed. 65% of the college graduates who joined us last year were eligible for military service. You can begin your career with Armstrong now. Then, after you fulfill your military obligation, you pick up right where you left off. Why this consideration? Because at Armstrong we need capable, imaginative college graduates who are looking for a place where they can grow and contribute. We're building for the future with each person we employ. And we stick by our people. Maybe that's why they stick with us. See our man when he is on your campus soon.
