

One win streak to be halted in NU-MU freshman game

by Mark Gordon
Sports Editor

Cletus Fischer would like nothing better than to extend his winning streak to five games. Bob Frala would like to record a third Missouri victory over Nebraska since 1962.

Both coaches will get a chance to lengthen their streaks Friday afternoon at 2:30 when the Missouri Tigers meet Nebraska in the opening freshman football game for both clubs.

The Husker freshmen were undefeated during Fischer's first coaching year last fall. The winning season included a 2-10 victory over Missouri at Columbia. But the Tigers have handed the Nebraska freshmen their only two losses since the Bob Devaney era began at Lincoln.

Two years ago, Nebraska finished 3-1 losing only 13-12 to the Tigers in Lincoln. That was the last game Nebraska dropped.

FISCHER TERMED his backfield as comparable to last year's crew, his offensive line as questionable and said his defensive crew smaller than last fall's outfit.

"Our team has been working real hard," he said, "and their attitude is fine. They have been working real hard in preparation for the Missouri game."

The Huskers last fall averaged 250 rushing yards per game and 110 passing yards. Don't under rate Nebraska's chances of topping those impressive figures this fall.

Fischer said the team could surpass those totals if the ofensive unit comes through.

"We've got more speed in the backfield than we did last year," he said. Fischer added that probable starting quarterback Van Brownson, one of Iowa's most sought after football and basketball stars from Shenandoah, was looking better with each practice.

Missouri always produces an aggressive team, he said, but he added that this Husker squad, which lists five Nebraskans among the tentative starting 22, has considerable potential but needs to work effectively as a team.

We won't make any guesses as to the outcome of the game, but we do urge football fans to bypass the usual FAC for a peek at the players who could be starting for the Huskers as early as next fall.

Looking forward to the big boys from Nebraska and Missouri who meet Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. in Memorial Stadium, an interesting comment appeared in this week's Big Eight notes.

"I honestly feel that any team that beats Missouri will have to show a great kicking game," says Colorado assistant coach Augie Tamariello, who scouted the Tigers for the Buffaloes. "They're just not the type of team you're going to drive 80 or 90 yards on."

have some more letters before noon Monday?

Prentice Guatt, in Lincoln last week to scout Nebraska for the Missouri Tiger coaching staff, said the Tigers "will hope and pray" when preparing for the Huskers.

The former fullback for the NFL's St. Louis Cardinals from 1961 to 1967, said Nebraska with its backfield of fullback Dick Davis and halfbacks Joe Orduna and Larry Frost has great potential.

Guatt said both Kansas and Nebraska have strong teams which will give the Tigers trouble this year, although he declined to pick which crew would provide the stiffest test for coach Dan Devine's Tigers.

"Kansas is tremendously strong with a multiple-offensive setup," the former two-year All-Big Eight back from Oklahoma said. "Nebraska never seems to quit."

Let's not bypass the Summer Olympic Games in Mexico City without mentioning the third-place showing in the 100-meter dash by former University track star Charlie Greene.

While Charlie didn't capture the gold medal, he did give Nebraska and the United States a tremendous effort and showed that it's not whether you win or lose that's important, but how you played the game. Great job, Charlie.

LAST WORDS — We heard a rumor this week that Nebraska basketball coach Joe Cipriano would not wear his bright red overcoat when coaching from the sidelines this winter. Come on, Joe, is this true or not?

Recognition goes to lineman Trutna

After naming backfield stars the past two weeks, an offensive lineman has been chosen Daily Nebraskan Intramural player of the Week.

Jack Trutna, a sophomore from Wahoo, was picked after blocking opposing defenders in Cather 13's three straight wins. Operating from the guard position, Trutna, a pharmacy major, was described by teammates as the finest blocker on the squad.

"All you have to do is keep your elbows in," he said. He added that he felt Cather 13 could win the All-University flag football title after gaining momentum by winning its first three games.

A guard for Wahoo High School's basketball squad, he also participated in football as a defensive backfield man and played on the school's golf team. The six-footer played forward for Kennedy

House's Cather Hall championship basketball team last winter.

Entries for next week's intramural player of the week are due in the Daily Nebraskan office in the Nebraska Union by noon Monday.

Committee focus: foreign students

An Executive Committee on International Students has been formed by the ASUN. Its work will include looking into the role of the international students, the housing for the students, and their integration into campus activities.

Anyone interested in being on this committee can come to the ASUN office, room 335, in the Union. Members will be appointed at the Senate meeting next Wednesday.
