HEW ex-Secretary criticizes response

Denver (CPS) — The American Council on Education rolled out two of education's "big guns" last week to talk to the 1400 delegates at its annual conference about the importance of understanding cities.

John Gardner, speaking at a Friday (Oct. 11) lunch, said that colleges and universities in this country have been "notably laggard" in their response to the urban crisis.

GARDNER is director of the National Urban Coalition, a Washington-based organization that seeks to establish city Coalitions all over the country. The aim of the Coalition is to comb at urban ills by coordinating representatives from all the social, political and economic strata of each city.

He was Secretary of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare until last fall and president before that of the Carnegie Corporation of New York City, a major foundation with a heavy emphasis on education.

In a veiled reference to problems at Columbia University, Gardner accused many universities of being "poor corporate citizens of their communities." Many universities which are large "in relation to their communities" have not, he said, "asked themselves what this implies in the way of obligations." And he added, "If you don't get to work on that, the students are likely to get to work on you."

In a keynote address the day before Gardner spoke, Constantine Doxiadis lectured on the importance of

NU plans Brazilian production

"The Rogue's Trial," a play by Brazilian playwright Ariano Suassuna, will have its first United States production at the University of Nebraska.

The play will be produced by the University Theater on November 22 and 23. According to drama professor Dallas Williams, it is a comedy on several levels — farce to social comment. The play, which has had great success in Europe and South America, is being produced as a part of the Latin American Fine Arts Festival, he said.

He continued that he hoped the 12-member cast would come from throughout the University. The play will be directed by Don Sobolik, a Ph.D. candidate in English.

Tryouts will be in room 301B of the Temple Building. They will be held Monday, Oct. 21 from 7 to 10 p.m.; Tuesday, Oct. 22 from 3:30 to 5:30 and 7 to 10 p.m.; and Wednesday, Oct. 23 from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m.

university understanding of cities and megalopolises. "They are expanding so fast," he said, "that in 30 years virtually every college and university in the country will be part of an urban or 'megalopolitan' environment, whether it likes it or not."

comprehensive, multi-million dollar planning study of urban development in Michigan.

With characteristic flourishes and slide illustrations, Doxiadis explained his four points: "One, cities are in crisis—a crisis so pervasive that only complete reform of the urban system can control it. Two, cities are in crisis vis-a-vis universities—the impact of universities in cities is very often detrimental to the surrounding society. "Three, we can look now at the cities of the future—they will be megalopolises with populations in the hundreds of millions, and the centers of education will be more important than the centers of commerce.

Squads aim for 2nd win

The Husker cross country squad and the University soccer club will both aim for second consecutive victories this weekend.

Nebraska cross country runners, after opening last Saturday with a 24-33 win over Kansas State, face last fall's Big Eight champions, the Missouri Tigers, who also opened successfully with a 23-36 triumph over Iowa State.

The three-mile race will be run at Pioneer Park starting at 10 a.m. Saturday.

WHILE Nebraska has no seniors on its roster, Missouri relies on veterans for its strength. Senior Glenn Ogden, recovering from a hip injury, ran the best race of his career against Iowa State last week.

Husker Pete Brang, who finished second against Kansas State, by one second will try to record his first conference victory against Missouri.

After scoring its first victory this season last weekend, the University Soccer Club will travel to Omaha to try to duplicate the performance with a return match against the South Omaha Kickers.

The local crew, which downed the Kickers last Sunday 6-0 in Lincoln, will face the Omahans at 2 p.m. at Lamp Park.

Victor Umunna, team captain said no changes were expected for this week's game, but he added that if the team shows improved coordination, it will win its second straight match.

Hammougli Summar, a center forward from Turkey, scored four goals against the Kickers last week to earn Umunna's label as "the team's star of the game."

Volgyes to speak on understanding college campuses

Ivan Volgyes, assistant professor of political science, will discuss international understanding of American campuses at a People to People convocation Sunday.

The meeting, open to all students and faculty, will be at 4 p.m. in the Nebraska Union.

Anyone interested in working with People to People, in such areas as a brother, sister program, are encouraged to attend, according to Bruce Eveland, People to People public relations chairman.

Demo achievements undramatic; HHH lacking glamour, charisma

Because the group is still in the forming stage, Perry would not release names of other interested faculty or size of the group.

"With 100 people, we could easily exhibit faculty and professional support for Humphrey," Perry said. Similar groups have already been formed at Creighton and the University of Nebraska at Omaha.

Perry said the campaign will be an uphill struggle. Only 18 days remain before election day. Humphrey's strength, though, is underestimated by most people, he said.

There is even a "strong possibility" that the election will wind up in the House of Representatives, Perry predicted. If neither candidate receives 270, or a majority of the electoral votes, the House will elect a President choosing from the top three candidates.

Perry sized up the three to Presidential candidates.

—Former Alabama Governor George C. Wallace has no chance of winning, Perry said. Wallace will only "interfere with the process," he said.

Should the election go into the House of Representatives, Wallace might extract concessions from other candidates, in return for the third party's support.

—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the current frontrunner, is running a superior campaign, compared to his former quests for high office, Perry continued. Nixon's position is more flexible than other candidates.

NIXON, HOWEVER, is the inferior candidate when considering candidate's records in public office, Perry said. Nixon's positions on law and order and the Supreme Court are not positions which would serve the United States well in the next four years.

—Vice President Hubert Humphrey, while having a superior public record, does not possess necessary charisma and glamour. Humphrey is having a difficult time projecting a favorable image to the American public, he said.

Perry emphasized Humphrey's public record. "But unfortunately, the nation is not issue oriented this year," he said.

The Humphrey supporter would not openly predict the winner of the November 5 election.

However the problems of the Democratic Party and their candidate are obvious, he pointed out.

The Johnson Administration's record is superior when in the fields of civil rights and economic advancement. But these things are not dramatic. "When you compound the problems of the Vietnam War in addition to the Chicago mess, you get some idea of the task facing Democratic campaigners this year," he said.

What is needed to assure a

Humphrey victory is a dramatic turn of events, either at home or abroad, Perry said.

SUCH A DRAMATIC event would probably come from outside the Humphrey campaign, he continued. Possibly, it would be in the form of greater support from Democrats who have not yet entered the campaign wholeheartedly.

"A debate between Nixon and Humphrey would have only an advantageous effect on Humphrey, Perry said. "Such a debate will probably not occur," he said.

Nixon doesn't want to debate on the same stage with George Wallace.

Congress did not rescind the law which would have permitted a face to face confrontation between the two candidates without George Wallace or any other presidential candidate.

"Since Congress has now adjourned and will not reconvene, Nixon has a legal loophole and will probably never debate," Perry said.
