

Greeks to debut in first concert on February 8

An hour of popular music including "Up, Up and Away" and "Dear Heart" will sound from the Nebraska Union Saturday at 8 p.m. when the Greek Chorale presents its first concert.

With concert proceeds, the Chorale hopes to present future concert-programs to 10-15 major high schools throughout the state, according to Gary Wolff, Chorale president.

The programs will be aimed at high school seniors and will talk about what the Greek system is — including its good and bad points, Wolff said. He feels that the concert-programs will be an ideal way to inform seniors about the Greek system.

THE 60-MEMBER CHORALE of 30 sorority and 30 fraternity members was begun this year for the enjoyment of students in the chorale, Wolff said.

If the Saturday concert is successful, the Chorale will be able to repay the Greek system in some way for the music with the high school programs, Wolff said.

Concert tickets for $1 are available in the Union and at the door.

Union Loung Instrumental... Drive for convention delayed

...in Providing Musical Outlet

There will be no petition drive for a constitutional convention organized this week, according to Cliff Sather, Harper Hall president who spoke out for a petition drive at Wednesday's student Senate meeting.

"The consensus of the senators and other concerned students who want the convention this spring is to place our trust in the Senate for one more week," he said, "in hopes they will exercise their position of leadership."

Sather emphasized that the ranks of the concerned students are made up of more than just dormitory residents.

"Greeks and off-campus students as well as dorm independents are concerned over this issue," Sather added. "For this reason, I think a petition drive would be a success."

Students must have the signatures of 35 per cent of the student body to call a constitutional convention by petition. The only alternative method for calling a convention is for Senate to do so by a three-fourths vote of all senators.

"A significant part of the student body has expressed an interest in calling a constitutional convention for at least the purpose of reapportioning the election of senators," Sather said.

If Senate does not offer a solution to the problem of reapportionment and the constitutional convention, he added, concerned students will organize the petition drive.

Ask the man who never stops going to school —about Aetna.

We teach school. Last year we had over seven thousand students. That's a larger student body than 90% of the colleges in this country. And our training never stops.

We want every Aetna employee and sales representative to be the most knowledgeable in the business. So special programs, advanced study and refresher courses go on all the time.

After all, it's the caliber of our people that made Aetna one of the largest companies in the world handling all kinds of insurance—business and personal.
