

Activities Mart scheduled

The second semester Activities Mart will be held Friday, Feb. 21, in the Nebraska Union Ballroom, 10:30-2:30 p.m.

Chairman Cathy Cleveland said that the Mart is beneficial to all participants. It is a chance for organizations to select workers for the second semester and an opportunity for freshmen and upperclassmen to join the groups of their choice.

Above all, the Mart will attempt to convince students that it is not too late in the year to become involved in activities, she said.

Trustees dislike power split

(CPS) - Most of the nation's college and university trustees do not think the faculty and students should have major authority in decisions affecting the significant educational and administrative issues on campus.

Most members of college governing boards believe such decisions should continue to be made primarily by themselves and by the college administration.

THESE ARE among the findings of a recent survey by Educational Testing Service on the backgrounds, roles and educational attitudes of college and university trustees. The study, based on a questionnaire of more than 5,000 members of college governing boards, will be published this month.

Luv Week adds to agenda

A change has been made in the program for Luv Week, according to Bob Christensen, a member of the Learning to Live Committee.

The four California businessmen scheduled to speak on social, personal and religious problems will also hold a free discussion period, open to all interested students, in the Nebraska Union lounge, Friday, Feb. 14, from 2:00 to 3:30.

Study tour program deadline approaching

The deadline is approaching for students interested in applying for a study tour to Europe during the spring and summer vacations in connection with the Foreign Study League. The league offers over 50 different programs, arranged according to age groups.

Summer programs last for six weeks and cost approximately $800.

Students interested in making the tour may contact Bob Tarsitano or Sister Mary Killan at Selleck Quadrangle. Further information and applications will be available at a booth in the Nebraska Union on Feb. 13. A movie will be shown that evening in the Union, room 343.

Centennial edition

The Daily Nebraskan will not publish Thursday, Feb. 13. Friday's NEBRASKAN will be a Centennial edition recognizing the University's 100 years since chartering. The Centennial issue will be 12 pages with color.
