AAUP: marijuana bill discriminates

Officers of the Nebraska State Conference of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) and the Nebraska Civil Liberties Union have labeled LB8 as discriminatory and called for legislative re-examination of the measure.

The bill would impose a 30-day suspension of any person attending any college of higher education in Nebraska who is convicted "of having cannabis (marijuana) in his possession..."

Local AAUP officers said the bill "singles out students as a special class for penalties beyond those already in effect for the rest of the community."

ACCORDING TO Lawrence Poston, NU English professor and local AAUP secretary, "the bill seems to intend that a student who had already been convicted and punished by a criminal court would then be punished by his college or university."

The officers feel that such matters as suspension and dismissal from school should be at the sole discretion of the school, Poston said.

Poston said LB8 makes it possible to dismiss any presiding officer who has failed to enforce the law and "thus intrudes on the prerogatives of the governing boards of the institutions."

The bill also fails to define the difference between treatment of administrative officers of public and private institutions and should be closely re-examined by the legislature, he said.

THE CIVIL LIBERTIES group declared that the provision calling for a fine and removal from office of a "presiding officer" who fails to expel such a student, is flagrantly unconstitutional.

NCLU President Charles Stephen declared that, "the bill would single out one group of persons, students, for more severe consequences than others convicted of the same alleged offense."

"It singles out one kind of offense for penalties not validly provided by the criminal law and is an unwarranted intrusion on the rights of educational institutions," he added.

"If the bill is passed by the legislature, the Nebraska Civil Liberties Union intends to look for opportunities to challenge in the courts any attempt at its enforcement," Stephen said.

Beer bill is still brewing in Unicameral

If Scottsbluff Sen. Terry Carpenter has his way the 3.2 beer, LB17, will be revived at the hands of the Legislature's Miscellaneous Subjects Committee.

Several University students were reported to be planning to attend the committee meeting at 2 p.m. Monday in voice support for Carpenter's bill.

LB17 was introduced by State Sen. Terry Carpenter on the opening day of the current legislative session and promptly killed by a 5-2 vote of the Miscellaneous Subjects Committee.

Wallace Weld, 29-year-old University student, is initiating a petition drive to influence the senator to reconsider. The petition, to be signed only by voters and potential voters, will be presented to Carpenter, he said.

The campaign is not an effort to get the bill passed. "We're interested in just getting this thing on the floor where they can all vote on it," Weld commented, adding that he thought it would probably fail on the floor as it did in committee.

IT MIGHT STAND a chance, though, if enough people talk to their senators, he continued.

"When we were 18, we sure would have liked a 3.2 beer!" Weld exclaimed. He pointed out that a number of Nebraska minors spend a good deal of time and money in Kansas and Colorado where 3.2 beer is sold to minors.

Weld is now working alone, but he hopes to enlist the help of interested adults. Weld said he is trying specifically to interest the Student Veterans Organization.

THE ORGANIZATION, composed of students attending the University on the GI bill, has done little more than meet, he said. Since he is a member of the group and wants it to become politically active, he will seek its help in reviving the bill.

The reason the bill was killed is not known, Weld noted, adding that he intends to inquire into it.

ONE MEMBER of the committee reportedly told him that a major reason for killing the bill was that some beer wholesalers claimed they had no room to store 3.2 beer. "It just doesn't sound right," he said.

He pointed out that all witnesses but one had testified in favor of the bill at the public hearing, and said he expected it to be cleared without difficulty but was surprised when the bill was killed.

Committee debate and individual voting have not been made public.

Workers sign-up held early

Four generations will hold a registration for workers Tuesday, Feb. 18, according to Dave Buntain, president of the Nebraska Union Program Council.

Union, Red Cross, Builders and YWCA will operate booths in the north lobby of the Union to sign-up all upper and under classmen who desire to work second semester. The booths will be open from 12:30-4:30 p.m.

"All four groups decided to go ahead with a worker registration prior to the AWS Activities Mart," Buntain said.

Internat'l Club selects committee

A group of interested students met Sunday afternoon to determine goals and objectives for the new University International Club.

The general meeting broke into groups of four to discuss objectives. Then the groups reported to the entire body. No decisions were reached.

A steering committee was elected to tabulate the committee's findings and present them to the general membership at the next meeting, tentatively scheduled for March 2 at 2 p.m.

NU trackteam sets new records in recent meets

After setting a Nebraska record for the mile run, Greg Carlberg has two goals remaining in this year's indoor track season — helping NU to a Big Eight indoor title and beating Iowa State.

The Omaha sophomore, with a 4:08.8 blistering clocking in Saturday's 93-29 dual victory over Colorado, broke his NU mile record set two weeks ago against Southern Illinois. That day he raced to a 4:10 but finished second.

ALTHOUGH CARLBERG said he doesn't look at the four-minute mark as a barrier, he added that he felt somewhat stronger Saturday at the three-quarter turn than when he ran the 4:10 in the opening meet.

"I didn't do anything different for Saturday's meet," he said, "I just hope the Big Eight meet will be balanced enough to take points away from Kansas so we have a chance to beat them."

The league indoor meet, set for Kansas City on Feb. 28 to March 1, is expected to set various indoor records as well as provide stiff opposition to the favored Kansas Jayhawks and their mile star Jim Ryan.

But before the league championships conclude NU's indoor campaign, the Huskers, now 3-0 under coach Frank Sevigne, meet Iowa State Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at the East Stadium track.

AFTER DEFEATING highly rated Southern Illinois, Kansas State and Colorado on successive Saturdays in Lincoln, Carlberg said the Huskers may relax a little for the supposedly weaker Cyclones. But that doesn't mean NU will falter for the Ames team to score an upset.

Besides Carlberg, other record-shattering efforts were achieved by trackman (and former basketball player) N. S. Hurd who topped NU's oldest record by leaping 24-8 in the long jump.

DESPITE SETTING a Stadium record of 15-2 Duane Sullivan finished second in the pole vault.

Brang also topped the Husker mile record by finishing second with a 4:09.5.

Olympic competitor Clifton Forbes won the 60-yard dash with :06.4 while Garth Case won the 600, Fred Nichols the 60 high hurdles and Dan Morran in the 1,000 for NU.

'Too much work' causes cancellation of evaluations

to what we want," he said. "But it is almost more than we can handle with the staff we have."

"THE FACULTY evaluation committee cannot, with any degree of effectiveness, put out a book in a year under the present structure of the committee," Zucker added. "It is simply too large a volume of work."

Zucker thinks that the possibility of salaried positions on the committee should be investigated.

Tom Morgan, past chairman of the committee, feels that under the existing structure of the committee, without any salary, the publication becomes a one or two man job.

"It boils down to one or two people taking all responsibility for the publication," he said Sunday. "That is the way it is on nearly any publication of this type."

MORGAN ALSO thinks that the faculty evaluation book can be printed "for a good deal less than $2,000," Zucker's estimate.

The method by which evaluation sheets were distributed in living units this fall does not assure that the evaluations will be valid, according to Morgan.

"The first book that was published was a success in that it was published at all," he added. "No new program in campus history has been a widely acclaimed success in its first year."

THE SECOND year of publication saw improvements mainly in the area of the number of professors evaluated, Morgan continued.

Keyserling talks on economics

As part of the college of business administration's centennial program, Leon H. Keyserling, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers during Truman's administration, will speak on campus Monday, February 17.

Keyserling will speak on "What Is to Follow the 'New Economics'?" at 3:30 p.m.

Leon H. Keyserling

in the Nebraska Union. His talk is open to the public. He is scheduled to address classes and seminars in the college of business administration in the morning. At 7:30 p.m. he will meet with business faculty and graduate students at the Faculty Club.

The economist holds an A.B. degree from Columbia and a law degree from Harvard. He has taught economics at Columbia and has long been engaged in economic research, currently as president of the Conference on Economic Progress, a non-partisan, non-profit organization.

Since leaving government in 1953, Keyserling has been a consulting economist and attorney, with offices in Washington, D.C. He also serves as consultant to federal agencies and Congressional groups.

"I didn't spend four years in college just to work as a clerk."

Then come to work at IH.

We'll listen to you. And give you a chance to stand on your own two feet.

Right from the start.

You see, we believe your point of view is just as important as ours.

We want new ways to do things. Better ways. And this calls for fresh ideas.

That's why you'll have to be a thinker. An innovator. A guy who has the guts to stand up for what he thinks is right.

You show us your stuff, we'll give you the freedom to swing.

You'll find plenty of action in motor trucks, farm equipment, construction equipment and steelmaking.

And the faster you prove yourself, the quicker you'll move up. Without a lot of red tape.

Get the picture? Now why not get into the act.

Talk to your campus placement officer about us. He'll give you the word on the good jobs we have in engineering, accounting, production management and sales.

Because the way we look at it, if we give you a good job you'll want to stick with us.

And that's exactly what we have in mind.
