

Female diets, beauty satirized . . .

The American Way subject of spoofing in Coed Follies

"America America" is the theme for the 1969 Coed Follies show, according to Coed Follies publicity chairman Sue Rogers. Tickets for the Feb. 28 performance at Pershing Auditorium are now on sale in the Nebraska Union for $1.50.

SIX SKITS and four traveler's acts are included in the program. Living units presenting skits are Chi Omega, Delta Delta Delta, Kappa Alpha Theta, Phi Mu, Pound Hall and Alpha Phi. The Chi Omega act, "Every Litter Bit Hurts," is a satire on the superficiality of beauty, according to skitmaster Barb Doerr. "The Campus Riot of Paul Revere or Go Big Red (Coats)," the Tri Delta production, presents an attempt by Paul Revere to override student apathy with warnings of a red (coat) invasion. Kristi Chappelle is skitmaster.

CARTOON CHARACTERS highlight the Theta skit, "Mini Ha Ha or Get Me to the Press on Time," according to skit chairmen Barb Peters and P. J. Ryan.

Dieting is the subject for the Phi Mu's "Chubbyville Chewes a Change or Who's too Fat to Fan Dance." Skitmaster is Jan Parks. Pound Hall performers satirize the practice of selling boy scout and girl scout cookies in "Change is Strange or That's the Way the Cookie Crumbles." Skitmaster is Sandy Fortmeyer.

"THE GENERATION Gap" provides a theme for the Alpha Phi skit, according to skit chairman Carolyn Casper.

In addition, four traveler's acts will provide musical entertainment between skits.

Jill Eiche, mistress of ceremonies for last fall's Kosmet Klub production, will perform a repertoire of comedy songs.

Music will also be provided by jazz singers Sharon and Karen Crays while Diane George will present a variety of pop songs.

Returning from last year, the Tri Delta Washboard Band concludes the traveler's acts.

Elimination of youth fares criticized as dangerous

Representative Arnold Olsen (D. Mont.) has charged that elimination of airline youth fares would "encourage thousands of young people to resume the illegal and dangerous practice of hitch hiking or to attempt long, exhausting automobile trips, frequently in unsafe vehicles."

Olsen said a Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) ruling against the half-fare standby tickets for persons under

21 "failed to combine prudence and justice."

The CAB ruling, written by Examiner Arthur S. Present, judged the special fare discriminatory to adult passengers. If upheld by the five-member Board, youth fares will be dropped in 30 days. In a letter to CAB Chairman John H. Crooker, Olsen asked that the decision be reviewed and rescinded.

"I fail to see how permitting a young person to fly half fare on a seat that would otherwise go empty discriminates against regular passengers," Olsen asserted.

Continuing, Olsen argued that "prudent justice in this situation would be influenced by the facts that most passengers over 21 are restricted by personal demands or schedules from flying space available; that a change to include all age groups in the standby fares would mean havoc for the reservation system; that the revenue loss resulting from elimination of the existing regulations could mean increased fares for all passengers; and that present youth fares contribute substantially to the cause of education."

The Montana lawmaker said he views the youth fare as a "bright spot in a world that generally discriminates against young people. The safest driver in the world has to pay twice as much for car insurance if his age happens to be 22 or 23," Olsen said.

Zoology professor wins research award

An assistant professor in the department of zoology, Dr. John Brumbaugh, has been granted a Public Health Service Research Career Development Award by the National Institute of General Medical Sciences.

The award will pay his faculty salary for the next five years, relieving him of most teaching duties and allowing him to concentrate on his research program, which involves determining the genetic control of pigment synthesis in the fowl.

Brumbaugh has been a member of the faculty since 1964.

"GENERALLY, my research is seeking to discover how genes act during development to produce the different tissue cells of the body," Brumbaugh said. "More specifically, I am studying how genes act in the pigment cells to produce the distinctive feather colorations in various breeds of fowl."

"The determination of how genes work in this situation may be applicable to their action within other cell types. I have been studying gene action within pigment cells because the pigment is inert and once produced remains permanent," he said.

East Union's art lending library opens

The East Union art lending library will be open Wed., Feb. 19, from 1 to 4 p.m., according to Bob Emanuel, chairman of the East Union contemporary arts committee.

Paintings borrowed must be returned May 9, he said. Additional paintings have been added to the collection to offer a wider selection this semester, he added.

Posts available for chaperones

The American Field Service (AFS) returnees organization is offering University students and faculty a free round-trip bus ride to New York City this summer, according to Susie Jenkins, AFS president.

Qualifiers will serve as chaperones for a busload of AFS foreign exchange students during a three-week trip across the U.S., taking place in June and July.

"The bus will finally unload in New York, where the chaperones may stay for the summer before AFS pays for their trips home," Miss Jenkins said.

To qualify, applicants must be 21 years old, or have completed the junior year of college. AFS imposes no upper age limit, Miss Jenkins said, but prefers that chaperones be in their twenties or early thirties.

"Since AFS prefers to have a male and a female chaperone on each bus, married couples should not hesitate to apply," Miss Jenkins said.

There is no salary for the trip, she said, but "the adventure should more than make up for the lack of funds."

"Each AFS bus travels toward New York stopping at predetermined towns each night," Miss Jenkins said.

Applications are available at the Wesley Foundation, 640 No. 16 St. Applications should be returned this week. Interviews for selection are scheduled for Sunday, Feb. 23.

Univac: For people who want to make the world a little bit better

Here at Univac, we've spent the better part of twenty years working to solve problems like water pollution, health, sanitation.

Univac computers are already helping Swedish doctors diagnose and treat illness faster, more accurately. Two of our computers are helping U.S. scientists learn to forecast and control the weather. You'll even find Univac computers directing traffic, keeping track of airline reservations, processing engineering data, and dispatching telegrams.

But the important problems are the problems still waiting to be solved: slums, air pollution, food shortages. This is what we're working on today and this is where you come in.

Univac needs men with a scientific education, but a humanitarian leaning, to help build the computers that will make tomorrow's world a little bit better.

Get more information on Univac. Write W. K. Lowe, Director of Manpower Planning and Development, P.O. Box 8100, Philadelphia, Pa. 19103.
