

'Adults can learn' from youth

New York — America's grownups can learn from the nation's switched-on young people about absolute honesty and depth of feeling in matters of love, marriage and sex, grandfather John D. Rockefeller III commented this week.

In a signed article appearing in the current issue of Look Magazine, the oldest of the five Rockefeller brothers said that a new perspective on modern life is emerging from the behavior and beliefs held by many of today's young people.

"I greatly respect them for taking a fresh look at boy-girl and man-woman relationships in our society," said Rockefeller. "Much of what they are thinking, saying and doing makes sense to me."

Young energy

In the article, Rockefeller said that his conclusions about the young generation were formed after a period of intense study for a speech he delivered last October. The subject of that speech was the youth revolution and he came away convinced of the great potential in the energy and ferment of young people, he said.

"I do not mean to ascribe magical powers to the young. They do not have all the answers. But I believe undeniably many young people in many ways are the advance guard into new behavioral territory in this complex and changing world and that we all would do well to observe carefully what they do any say," wrote Rockefeller.

The nation's young, he said, are forcing a change in the old "Victorian

Art Lending Library scheduled for Oct. 7

Program film director interviews on Tuesday

The Nebraska Union Program Committee is now accepting applications for the position of area film director. All interested students are encouraged to apply in the Union Program Office and to sign up for interviews Tuesday evening, Sept. 23. The new area film director will serve inhibitions" about sex. While youth has its problems, he added, "puritanism certainly is not one of them."

The true significance about the sex revolution is not whether there is more or less sex, but the emergence of a healthier attitude about sex, said Rockefeller, commenting that this revolution has brought out into the open "what used to be needlessly pushed up and saddled with guilt."

Rockefeller wrote in his Look article that marriage remains the cornerstone of society and "remains as important as ever with the young." Despite their freedom from convention and inhibition, he said, "their relations are not superficial; rather there is genuine striving for depth and meaning."

Teacher Placement orientation to draw 500

More than 900 graduating seniors will register with the Teacher Placement Division for the current school year.

Last year, including alumni, a total of 2,112 prospective teachers were registered and the number is expected to increase again this year.

In order to accommodate the large number of registrants, three meetings have been set for Sept. 29, Oct. 1-2 at 4:30 p.m. at Love Memorial Library Auditorium.

The purpose of the meetings is to orient students to the process of seeking teaching positions, and distribute forms for registration with placement. Interviews for Second Semester positions begin in November

STANDOUT

The standOUT* pocket-model reference marker by Eberhard Faber makes printed material leap off the page.

Use it to emphasize words, titles, numbers and other important points in reports, textbooks, outlines, maps. Everywhere something has to stand out. On any kind of paper.

The pocket-size standOUT goes to class with you, goes anywhere you go. Makes it easy for you to take better notes, by marking the high spots with a bright yellow or pink color for fast, easy reference.

Do it right. With the standOUT.

Contact lenses are made of modern plastics which have entirely different characteristics than the tissues and fluids of the eye. Consequently your eye cannot handle this foreign object without help. So, in order to correct for Mother Nature's lack of foresight, you have to use lens solutions to make your contacts and your eyes compatible. There was a time when you needed two or more separate solutions to properly modify and care for your contacts, making them ready for your eyes. But now there's Lensine from the makers of Murine. Lensine, for contact comfort and convenience. Lensine is the one solution for complete contact lens care. Just a drop or two of Lensine coats and lubricates your lens. This allows the lens to float more freely in the natural fluids of your eye. Why? Because Lensine is an "isotonic" solution, very much like your own tears. Lensine is compatible with the eye.

Cleaning your contacts with Lensine retards the build-up of foreign deposits on the lenses.

And soaking your contacts in Lensine between wearing periods assures you of proper lens hygiene. You get a free soaking-storage case with individual lens compartments on the bottom of every bottle of Lensine.

It has been demonstrated that improper storage between wearings permits the growth of bacteria on the lenses. This is a sure cause of eye irritation and, in some cases, can endanger your vision. Bacteria cannot grow in Lensine because it's sterile, self-sanitizing, and antiseptic.

Let caring for your contacts be as convenient as wearing them. Get some Lensine . . . Mother's little helper.

Mother Nature never planned on contact lenses
