

Peace Corps reps to speak on campus

Peace Corps representatives will be on campus Monday through Wednesday, Oct. 13-15. They will be available to speak to living units and student organizations and will operate from a room in the Nebraska Union.

The Peace Corps has changed its program from general to specific assignments as the demand for skilled volunteers has increased in host countries. It will attempt to recruit in all areas of the U.S. and not just on college campuses.

About 30 per cent of those needed are skilled workers in agriculture, industry, teaching and nursing. The other 70 per cent will be general assignment recruits.

Ersin A. Erel a native of Turkey, will be heading the Peace Corps recruitment program on the NU campus. Erel worked in the U.S. AID program, the U.S. Army and Air Force and the Peace Corps in Turkey.

"The Peace Corps is the best foreign program the U.S. has," Erel said. "It does not militarize a country, but helps it get back on its feet. It also helps the U.S. save face in the light of the military ugliness elsewhere."

The college student remains unknown

Washington — (SCP) — Like the star too distant to be viewed clearly through a telescope or the germ too small to be seen through a microscope, the U.S. college student has remained an unknown and therefore enigmatic quantity since the start of the 1969-70 academic year.

This fall, he has scurried about busily preparing for the Oct. 15 Vietnam War Moratorium, protested the University of California's dismissal of a communist instructor, launched rent strikes at four schools, and held a boycott of classes at the University of Michigan in support of demands for a student-operated bookstore.

Despite this bit of empirical evidence and despite the postulations and predictions offered by sociologists, psychologists, the commercial press, and government-commissioned task forces, it's anyone's guess as to whether the issues of the war, the draft, racism, and educational and social reform on the campus will incite this year's student to the same level of frustration and dissent as occurred last year.

Some apparently saw the student's nature as being close to innately evil. The City College of New York, for example, stationed armed security guards in the building where students were registering for classes. Temple University formed its own 125-man campus police force.

The University of Wisconsin and University of Michigan both have developed over the summer civil defense plans to employ in the event of building occupations or violent demonstrations. Michigan also fire-proofed and bomb-proofed files containing important documents.

Other institutions, while not following the law and order on the campus theme so overtly, equipped old discipline codes with new teeth aimed at chomping down on so-called disruptive activities.

Cornell University, which endured an armed building occupation by militant blacks last year, added a disciplinary clause prohibiting "misconduct sufficiently serious as to constitute a violation of or threat to the maintenance of the public order." The clause covers faculty members as well as students, and the maximum penalties are the dismissal of the former and expulsion of the latter. A 21-member hearing board with four student members will have jurisdiction in misconduct cases.

Letter
The University of Illinois sent a letter to parents of undergraduates warning: "When... a student is found to have knowingly engaged in a disruptive or coercive action, including knowing participation in a disruptive or coercive demonstration, the penalty will be dismissal or suspended dismissal." Other schools, including Ohio, Indiana, Purdue, and North Carolina have released similar conduct statements.

At the State University of New York at Stony Brook — the scene of several mass drug busts during the past two years — students now face suspension for an arrest on a drug law violation and expulsion for a conviction. On many campuses, including Stony Brook, students have demanded in recent years that administrations stay out of the policing business, particularly when drugs are involved.

In Ohio, Gov. James Rhodes said he would send state troopers or National Guardsmen to quell campus disturbances, whether or not the university administrations asked for them.

Returning students were greeted with curricular and structural changes, as well as warnings, at many schools. Whether they were intended as appealing gestures or in sincere recognition of the students to relevant learning and self-determination is a matter for conjecture.

Black studies

Black studies programs have burgeoned across the U.S., paralleling an increase in the number of blacks attending colleges. Dartmouth, a school that has graduated fewer than 150 blacks in its 200-year history, has 90 blacks in a freshman class of 855.

Other eastern colleges have taken similar steps. Brown University has increased the number of blacks in its freshman class from eight in 1966 to 77 currently; Wesleyan, from 30 to 51; Yale, from 31 to 96; and Harvard, from 40 to 95. Harvard also recently announced it had established a Department of Afro-American Studies, offering 15 courses, including one on the "black revolution." The Ivy League institution has appointed a 35-member committee to prepare proposals for structural change based on a report on last year's disorders.

For Stanford's 5,000 returning students, new educational reforms meant an end to most graduation requirements, including those in foreign languages. Individual departments have been asked to design options to permit a student to take at least one-half of his work outside the requirements of his major. The number of

Does it really work?

If you've ever resorted to NoDoz® at 4 a.m. the night before an exam, you've probably been disappointed.

NoDoz, after all, is no substitute for sleep. Neither is anything else we can think of.

What NoDoz is a very strong stimulant. In fact, NoDoz has the strongest stimulant you can buy without a prescription.

Caffeine. What's so strong about that? If we may cite The Pharmacological Basis of Therapeutics: Caffeine is a powerful central nervous stimulant. Caffeine excites all portions of the central nervous system. Caffeine stimulates all portions of the cortex, but its main action is on the psychic and sensory functions. It produces a more rapid and clearer flow of thought and allays drowsiness and fatigue. After taking caffeine, one is capable of more sustained intellectual effort and a more perfect association of ideas. There is also a keener appreciation of sensory stimuli.

Very interesting. But why take NoDoz when you can get caffeine in a cup of coffee?

Very simple. You take NoDoz all at once instead of sipping coffee for 10 minutes. And if you take two NoDoz tablets, the recommended dosage, you get twice the caffeine in a cup of coffee.

Two tablets— isn't that likely to be habit forming? Definitely not. NoDoz is completely non-habit forming.

Which means it's safe to take whether you're cramming at night. Or about to walk into an 8 o'clock class. Or driving somewhere (even though you're rested) and the monotony of the road makes you drowsy.

One last thing you should know about NoDoz. It now comes in two forms. Those familiar white pills you take with water. And a chewable tablet called NoDoz Action Aids. It tastes like a chocolate mint, but it does everything regular NoDoz does.

And if you've managed to stay awake this long, you know that's quite a lot.

How many "barefoot boys" in your house or dorm?

All the rest wear shoes

If you don't need extra money don't bother reading this because all we have to offer is money. Do us the favor, though, of tearing it out and handing it to someone who might welcome some extra dollars.

Our story is very simple:

ITEM: If all the men in your house or dorm wear shoes they have to buy them somewhere.

ITEM: You can make from $2.50 to $6.50 (and more) a pair by supplying shoes to your friends from the Hanover catalog. It means you can get your own shoes wholesale and we'll also tell you how you can have a free pair (worth $21.95) within the first 30 days.

ITEM: The Hanover Shoe is equal or superior in quality to any shoe on the market and sells for from $5.00 to $17.00 a pair less. Take our word for that for now—we'll prove it to you.

Fill in the coupon and we'll send you a full kit. Look it over and if it's not for you send it back—no cost, no obligation. Take a close look at the catalog, however. This is a man's deal. More than 170 styles—dress shoes, work shoes, imported boots, casuals, fleece lined boots for hunting.
