Huskers have few worries: only Sooners, Owens, etc.

by Randy York
Nebraskan Sports Editor

Kansas football coach Pepper Rodgers this week manufactured another in a season-long sequence of funnies when he said his Jayhawks, winless in six Big 8 Conference games, "are not looking past" Orange Bowl-bound Missouri. Rodgers, quite obviously, was kidding. Nebraska football coach Bob Devaney, however, was not kidding when he noted, without naming, that particular bowl officials do look past certain developments despite making promises if those developments materialize. Gator Bowl officials presumably indicated that IF the Huskers topped Kansas State last week, Nebraska would be extended a bid to the Gainesville, Fla., bowl.

The IF came through, but the Gator Bowl guys did not, and Nebraska followers now are directing their attention to the Sun Bowl, which features downtown, metropolitan El Paso, Tex. and its swinging next-door neighbor Juarez, Mexico. Nebraska fans, at least, are resting more comfortably now. Unlike conference friends Colorado and Kansas State, the Huskers have secured their bowl bid. They can't blow that. Either the Wildcats or the Buffs will be staying home when the other meets Alabama in the Liberty Bowl at Memphis, Tenn. All Nebraska has to worry about Saturday is Oklahoma, Steve Owens, a possible league championship and a cluster of other unimportant items.

The barrier for Nebraska is not the Oklahoma team, as such. The Huskers, it should be conceded, are superior in talent, especially defensively. What bugs most people is playing the Sooners at Norman's Owen Field, which seems to be appropriately named. Since Bob Devaney has been at the Husker helm, Oklahoma twice has ruined unbeaten Nebraska seasons in the finale at Norman. The Sooners also could ruin this writer's effort to reach the .800 mark in selecting Big 8 winners. Last week produced another perfect slate, raising the season batting average to .787 (37 correct guesses in 47 picks). This week's forecast sees: Nebraska 24, Oklahoma 14 — The odds-makers have installed

Nebraska an underdog, a role in which the Huskers produce best. Nebraska last won in Norman in 1960 BD (Before Devaney). The Husker coach sees six years of frustration evaporate Saturday, however. Colorado 21, Kansas State 17 — A trip to Memphis seems only secondary in relation to a third place conference finish. If the game were being played in Manhattan, the Wildcats would get the edge, but Bobby Anderson has some belated campaigning for Heisman Trophy voters, who just happened to forget his name when they marked their ballots. Missouri 24, Kansas 14 — The Jayhawks could salvage some sort of consolation in a season of only one win, but the Missouri game is a dumb time to start calculating revolutionary plans. Kansas' playing at home is the only thing it has going, something which doesn't mean much when Missouri has the better players and the better coach.

Oklahoma State 21, Iowa State 17 — This game could be unreported in Sunday's paper and few persons likely to miss it. No bowl games remain in this contest, no high conference finish. Both teams, however, are good, solid clubs, who throw their quota of seats into the Big 8 chase.

Tourny opens registration

Registration is now open for the Nebraska Union Recreation tournament. The double elimination tournament will include pool, table tennis, chess and bowling. Winners of the tournament will go to the Association of College Unions Region XI Recreation Tournament. Registration is made through the Nebraska Union Program Office, Room 128, and must be completed by November 25.

Soph stars make debuts against freshman cagers

Two Nebraska sophomore standouts make their varsity debut Friday night at 7:35 in the Coliseum against a Husker freshman team, equally eager to show basketball fans what kind of talent to expect this season. Schuylar skyscraper Chuck Jura, and Miller, S.D., product Al Nissen accomplished something almost unimaginable for varsity coach Joe Cipriano's club. The two sophomores nailed down starting positions on a squad which returned all of its personnel from last year. After three weeks of Husker drills, the pair replaced 6-8 Jim Brooks and 6-5, two-year regular Bob Gratopp on the starting unit. Brooks, however, has been slowed in practices with a leg injury, and Gratopp's practice sessions this week have been impressive. Starting positions obviously are on the line for both clubs. The annual scrap promises a fast-moving game by the smaller and more inexperienced Frosh, and perhaps, a slower, more deliberate offense from the varsity, which has more size than any Nebraska team under Cipriano. Guards Tom Gregory (6-2) of Fullerton, Calif., and Randy Watts (6-0) of Richmond, Ky., appear to be the key to any Frosh success against the varsity.

Freshman coach Rex Hughes, who also will make his Lincoln debut, indicated this week that he plans to run a speed-up type game to compensate for inexperience, and hopefully, to force varsity mistakes with a pressure-type defense. Gregory and Watts will be joined in the Frosh starting lineup by forwards Ambrose Ratcliff (6-6) from Chicago and Tony Riehl (6-4) of Louisville, Ky., and center Cal Christine, the 6-5 1/2, three-year all-stater from Sterling, Neb. Guard Nissen will be joined by leading returning Nebraska scorer Marvin Stewart in the backcourt. Leroy Chalk (6-7) is set at center. Two-year starter Tom Scantelbury (6-2) joins Jura at forward.

Friday's test will give fans a sneak preview of the Huskers' defense, which Cip says, is the key to the club's success this season. "We've had more depth than ever," Cip says, "but defense will make us a good team."

Sun Bowl tickets go on sale

An allotment of 2,000 tickets to the Sun Bowl, December 20, has been set aside for a student sale. Tickets, which are $6.00 each, will be sold in the coliseum Nov. 24-26 and Dec. 1-2, from 9 to 12 a.m. and from 1 to 4 p.m. Each full time student may apply for only one ticket, and married students may apply for only two. The student must appear in person, present his I.D. card, and leave a check with his ticket application. Students desiring to sit in a group will apply for their tickets as noted above and their applications will be placed together and handled as one order. If there are less than 2,000 ticket applications, all applicants will receive a ticket. If more than 2,000 orders are received, a drawing will be held to determine those students who are to receive tickets, and seat location will be determined on a lottery basis. Tickets may be picked up at the coliseum ticket office beginning December 4, and any student not picking up his ticket by Friday, December 12, will have his order cancelled.
