

Black History Week Innis selected as speaker

The National Director of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), Roy Innis, will speak at the University of Nebraska on Thursday, Feb. 12, according to Dave Huemann, Nebraska Union Council member.

Innis will headline Black History Week, which will be held in the Nebraska Union Feb. 9-13. Sponsored by the Afro-American Society and the Union Program Council, Black History Week will include films, local speakers and a soul concert, Huemann said.

Innis has been active in CORE for nearly a decade. By 1963, he had become one of the leading advocates of black power. Most of his efforts until that time dealt with local community developments.

Serving as the chairman of CORE in Harlem from 1965-68, Innis, more than any other individual, was responsible for the national philosophy of CORE. As a result of his ideas, CORE began to emphasize the need for quality education and the community control of schools.

One of Innis's most well known statements was in a resolution introduced at the 1966 CORE convention in Baltimore, Md., calling for black power and black self-determination.

In addition to holding office in CORE, Innis, in 1967 became the executive director of the Harlem Commonwealth Council, an organization formed to develop small industry and capital investment with the long-range goal of bringing economic power to the people of Harlem.

Government fight: Senate vs. Tribunal

by GARY SEACREST
Nebraskan Staff Writer

Student Senate, in a resolution approved Wednesday, directed ASUN President Bill Chaloupka to file a suit in Student Court asking that the charter of the Student Tribunal be suspended.

The resolution states that the suit is being filed because of Student Tribunal's "failure to include provisions relating to referendum and recall" as required by the ASUN Constitution.

If the suit calling for the suspension of the charter fails, the resolution asks that the present members of the Student Tribunal be removed from office for failure to follow the provisions of the Student Tribunal Charter.

During the meeting, Sen.

Randy Prier charged that students on the Tribunal "failed at their responsibilities last semester." Sen. Bruce Cochrane replied that Student Tribunal provides a "valuable service." He opposed filing the suit.

The Senate also passed a resolution urging the City of Lincoln to enact an open housing law as soon as possible. The resolution also calls for an ASUN representative to be present at the public hearings of the open housing law.

Chaloupka said in the meeting that the Senate has not been as active and innovative this year. Sen. Christie Schwartzkopf agreed with him and said, "It's obvious that we can't go on like this. We need to do some thinking about the future of the Senate." Chaloupka said that time in next week's meeting will be reserved to discuss the future role of the Senate.

Ken Wald reported that the Faculty Evaluation books will be smaller than expected, but will be available before March 1. Wald also said that in the future the Teaching Council, Faculty Senate and ASUN might put out the Faculty Evaluation book together.
