Police 'invade' campus classrooms

by BILL SMITHERMAN
Nebraska Staff Writer

About 85 Lincoln policemen have "invaded" the University campus, not as law officers but as students.

Many police officers have returned to class after passage of a Federal bill granting money for police education, according to Capt. Dale Adams, Lincoln police training officer.

He said that officers who agree to serve as policemen for two years after their schooling are eligible for $200 to $300 per semester in tuition grants. Police can also get government education loans up to $1,800, Adams added.

He explained that the federal loans are discounted at the rate of 25 per cent per year for each year the officer remains in police work after his graduation. Because of this, the loan is automatically paid off after four years.

"The city of Lincoln also has a program to get officers in school," Adams said. "An incentive plan for police education provides that an officer's pay be raised five percent for each 30 hours of college credit he receives."

"All four Lincoln police captains are taking courses," Adams said. "We have a cross section of the department in school, from the oldest members to the youngest."

Police Lt. B. Dean Leitner is one of the men taking advantage of the new program. He attended college through his junior year before joining the Lincoln police in 1957.

Leitner plans to work for a bachelor's degree in law enforcement and correction. This degree is becoming available at the University in Lincoln because of the merger with the University of Omaha.

"I find school a good bit different than when I left it in 1957," Leitner said. "We always wore slacks and shirts to class then. Now some of the students don't even wear shoes."

"I'm not saying this is bad," he added, "just different. I kind of enjoy it."

New Camaro. Feb. 26th.

We've never announced a car at this time before.
But then nobody's ever announced a car like this before.

Super Hugger

If it were an ordinary sportster, we'd have introduced it at the ordinary time.

Instead, we took the time to build a whole new Camaro.

We started with a sleek new shape and a low road-hugging stance.

And added more hood. A faster fastback. Wider doors. And new deeply contoured bucket seats.

The instrument panel wraps around you. With enough dials to make you think you're piloting a 747.

There are four transmissions. And six power plants up to the Turbo-Jet 396 V8 that you can order.

Pick the one that best suits your driving. Then go pick on an open road.

And make it one with plenty of twisting turns. Because Camaro has a remarkable new suspension. And standard front disc brakes for a leech-like grip on the road.

New Camaro. The Super Hugger.

Other sportsters always feared it might come to this.

And they were right. Only their timing was wrong.

Putting you first, keeps us first.

See it. At your
