

ASUN makes requests for "super senate"

by GARY SEACREST

Nebraskan Staff Writer

The ASUN Senate Wednesday approved a resolution requesting the University Human Rights Committee to consider the creation of a student-faculty senate.

The proposed University Senate would be composed of not less than 70 per cent graduate students, undergraduate students, and "instructors." "Instructors" in the resolution refers to University teachers with instructor status. The rest of the senate would be composed of faculty members with the rank of assistant professor or above.

SEVERAL SENATORS said the University faculty would never approve a University Senate composed of not less than 70 per cent students and instructors.

Sen. Phil Medcalf, who introduced the resolution, replied, "The 70 per cent figure is a negotiating position. It's quite obvious we aren't going to get a University Senate composed of 70 per cent students and instructors."

THE ASUN SENATE also passed Wednesday a resolution outlining proposed University policy on students' right to privacy.

The proposed policy states that no University official, agent or employee shall be permitted to enter and search a student's dormitory room unless the student is present and gives his consent.

The proposed policy also states that the only way a student's room can be searched is if the University Police acquire a search warrant.

The only exceptions to the above requirements will be entry to prevent destruction of residence hall property, for an emergency threatening human life or for room maintenance when students are notified.

The search and seizure policy must still be approved by the Council on Student Life.

The policy statement grew out of a controversy last semester concerning the arrest of an NU student for possession of marijuana. The arrest was made after the student's room was searched.

THE ASUN SENATE also approved Wednesday a resolution requesting the University Human Rights Committee to request the Board of Regents to clarify the powers of various student legislative groups.

In other action Wednesday:

—First Vice President Diane Theisen announced the resignations of Senators Lynn Alexander, Mary Piper and Tom Wiese.

—Wade Nutzman and Steve Tiwald were elected to fill vacant senate seats in Agriculture & Home Economics and Arts & Sciences.

Thursday recital

The University of Nebraska School of Music will present a Symphonic Band concert, conducted by Donald A. Lentz and assisted by Jack Snider, french horn soloist, at Kimball Recital Hall, Thursday, February 26, at 8 p.m.

Snider a faculty member of the School of Music will perform "Concerto, Op. II" by Richard Strauss. Other works on the program will be "The Sicilian Vespers" by Verdi, "Fantasies on a Theme by Haydn" by Norman Dello Joio, and "Diamond Variations" by Robert Jager.

Honorary names Thompson head

A national honorary for women in education, Pi Lambda Theta, has elected Sue Thompson president.

Other officers chosen were Sue Fitzpatrick, vice-president; Kathy Riesselman, secretary; and Nancy Tuch, corresponding secretary.

ASUN refunds Indian tutors

The ASUN Senate Wednesday appropriated $1,000 to Tri-University's tutoring programs on the Macy and Winnebago Indian Reservations.

About 100-125 NU students journey to the reservations each week to tutor Indian children. The reservations are about 20 miles south of Sioux City, Iowa.

The money will be used for bus transportation for the students during second semester.

According to the appropriations bill, more money for the tutoring project is necessary because of the excellent response by volunteer students and the Indian communities.

Barry Commoner speaks Thursday

Barry Commoner, one of the nation's leading ecologists will discuss the future of man's environment at the Nebraska Center Thursday at 2 p.m.

Commoner, director of the Center for the Biology of Natural Systems at Washington University, St. Louis, will address the eleventh annual Watershed Workshop of the Nebraska Soil and Water Conservation Commission. Commoner was recently featured in an article in TIME magazine.

He will also address students at Wesleyan University Thursday and Friday.

East Union presents lending library

The 1970 East Campus Art Lending Library will be held Thursday at the East Union from 4 to 4:30 p.m.

Each semester the East Union makes pictures available to NU students. The pictures are checked out, free of charge for a semester, according to Bob Pfeiffer, East Union President.

"We significantly expanded the library this year by adding a large number of new pictures," Pfeiffer said. "We also are developing a new dimension to our library by including several sculptures."

Rally on

One more time

An anti-draft rally has been scheduled for 10 a.m. Friday on the north steps of the Lincoln Post Office to demonstrate support for Larry Zink, who will be sentenced in Federal Court Friday for destroying his draft card.

The primary purpose of the rally is to make the anti-war sentiment visible to the people of Lincoln and the state of Nebraska, according to Steve Tiwald, organizer of the rally.

Zink pleaded guilty Dec. 2, 1969, on charges that he burned his draft card before several hundred people at a Hyde Park session in the Nebraska Union Feb. 13, 1969.

HE IS free on $2,500 bond after being arrested while working in Oregon last summer.

Tiwald added, "I hope the demonstration will create awareness in the state that there are people, even in Nebraska, who are going to jail and going to Canada in opposition to the war and the draft."

Zink, a former honor student, said, "We want the public to know that ordinary, average students and not just radicals are opposed to the war."

"I BELIEVE in freedom. I don't believe the draft has any place in a democratic society. This is why I pleaded guilty," Zink said.

"We hope the demonstration will define the issues about the draft — that its un-American and unconstitutional. The government has lost site of the First Amendment," said Mike Shonsey, coordinator of Nebraskans for Peace, who is helping organize the rally.

A public meeting will be held Thursday evening at 8 p.m. UMHE to complete plans for the rally, according to Shonsey.

Degree requests due

All University of Nebraska students who expect to receive bachelors, masters or doctoral degrees, two-year or six-year certificates at the close of this semester must make application by Saturday.

Application should be made at the Registrar's Office in Room 208, Window 3, Administration Building, between the hours of 8 and 5 Thursday and Friday, or 9 to noon on Saturday, according to Irma Laase, assistant director of registration.
