

Minority radio panel

Two University administrators and a counselor will discuss minority enrollment at the University on KRNU-FM radio station Thursday at 9 p.m.

G. Robert Ross, executive dean of student affairs, will host the panel discussion with Haze Pope, student counselor, and Walter Strong, coordinator for special programs. Pope and Strong are blacks.

Peter Mayeux, assistant professor of journalism, said the 45-minute program, now entitled "Viewpoint" will be a weekly show featuring topics of interest to the University community.

"We have to change the name of the program because another local radio station is already using it," Mayeux noted. He did not know what the new name will be.

KRNU, at 90.3 megacycles on the dial, began broadcasting Monday, February 23. "So far things are going pretty well," he said, "at least we haven't had any major complaints."

"We can't measure our circulation like a newspaper and we don't have a rating system," he said, "so we can't judge how large our listening audience is."

Mayeux speculated that KRNU "is receiving quite a bit of attention right now. It's like anything new," he continued.

Whether "we can sustain the number of listeners we have now depends on how well our broadcasting is," he said.

Broadcast hours from 4 to 11 p.m. will be extended on Thursday and Friday nights until midnight, Mayeux said.

The KRNU schedule:
4-5 p.m. — classical music; 5-7 p.m. — light music; 7-7:15 p.m. talk show "Campus Perspective"; 7:15-8 p.m. — jazz.

At 8 p.m. KRNU will begin with the top 40 and will become more rock orientated as the evening progresses until sign off time.
