

Red Barons gamble in sky

The Red Barons, student flying club at the University of Nebraska, are sponsoring a flying "poker game" Saturday, April 18. Anyone may enter at their nearest airport — Lincoln, Columbus, Fremont, Millard or Crete.

The object is to fly to each of the other airports and select a card at each one. Upon completing the round robin each contestant will have five cards which are turned in. The judges will determine which contestant has the best poker "hand."

The holder of the best hand will be awarded $50 by Weaver Potato Chip Company and the holder of the second-best hand will be awarded $25 by Weaver-Minier Insurance Agency, Lincoln.

Participants who do not win the first or second prize are eligible to win a prize for the best hand among the contestants at their "home" airport. Contestants starting at Lincoln airport are eligible to win a prize courtesy of Duncan Aviation.

Both pilots and passengers may enter. Starting time is 9 a.m. The entry fee is $4 per person.

This fund raising event is being held to help send a team representing Nebraska to the National Intercollegiate Flying Association spring meet in Bozeman, Mont. Last year the Nebraska team placed fourth in the nation.

Batch opens headquarters, seeks Lancaster support

State Sen. Clifton Batchelder officially kicked off his campaign in Lincoln Thursday. And he has already recruited at least one University student to help—his daughter, Anne.

Batch, talking leisurely in his newly opened Lancaster County Headquarters, said that Anne, a junior at the University, would probably not have much time to campaign. "She's just trying to graduate," the state senator said.

But Miss Batchelder disagreed. A student for Batch group will probably form, she plans to be involved, perhaps to the point of leading the group.

The headquarters, located on South Eleventh Street, will help coordinate such groups as Students for Batchelder.

Batchelder, an acknowledged conservative and law-and-order candidate who is opposing incumbent Republican Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann in the May 12 gubernatorial primary.

He predicted he would take Omaha, but emphasized that it would be dangerous to prognosticate how the votes in Lancaster County will go.

"No poll has been taken," he pointed out. "There is no scientific way to predict, but I do detect a strong undercurrent of conservatism here."

He sponsored the controversial unlimited self-defense bill during the 1969 session of the Unicameral.

The Omaha senator has also opposed what he calls excessive spending for the University.

Batchelder said he is not concerned with the possible affect University professors could have on the campaign.

And, the candidate said he might get some votes because of the opposition by the professors. Batchelder said he has a "certain amount" of support on the campus anyway.
