place more value in what students say. If the student body becomes more interested in ASUN, the administration will be more interested when ASUN speaks."

The ASUN president has two rules, according to Tiwald. He noted that the president must be a student representative to the faculty, administration, the Board of Regents and the Legislature.

"He must also provide leadership. Accomplishing goals is a team effort, but someone must spearhead the movements," he remarked.

"I am happy I was elected," Tiwald said, "but more importantly I'm glad so many University Coalition members were elected. I consider the presidency of ASUN a tremendous challenge and I am anxious to do what I can."

Voters like Coalition

The University Coalition swept Wednesday's ASUN elections winning the presidency, second vice-presidency and 15 senate seats.

A voting turnout of less than 2,500 elected Steve Tiwald as the sixth ASUN president. Unofficial returns give Tiwald 906 votes, 103 more than his nearest competitor, Ken Wald.

Bob Pfeiffer of the Service Party was elected first vice president and Mark Theisen of the University Coalition captured the second vice president position.

All the University Coalition candidates, except Dave Bingham (a write-in candidate for first vice president), were elected.

The results for the Agriculture and Home Economics senate race and all the advisory boards are

HOLLYWOOD WOULD NEVER APPROVE

There are no stereotype Saturday-at-the-movies Indians in this picture.

You're looking at four hard-driving rock musicians from the West Coast who call themselves Redbone.

Two of the group, Lolly Vegas and Pat Vegas, backed Odetta and John Lee Hooker while still in their teens. And have written songs recorded by Aretha Franklin, Bobbie Gentry and The Righteous Brothers.

Chances are you're not going to expect what you hear when you play Redbone's new album.

Chances are you've seen too many movies.
