Stout explained that what has radicalized students on the campus has been a sense of frustration. If the current rational effort is not effective there will be a lot more frustrated and radicalized students, he said.

He urged people from all over the state to attend the Saturday rally. "I'm confident Nebraskans will support reasonable concerns such as this one," Stout said.

Allen congratulated University administrators and Governor Norbert T. Tiemann for their handling of the ROTC building situation Monday. "Without a responsive governor and a responsive University administration we might have

NU strikers backed by 5 senators

The Daily Nebraskan received this telegram from five United States Senators on Thursday. The Daily Nebraskan feels this telegram captures the spirit and intent of the protest at the University of Nebraska.

Dear Editor:

We share the sense of outrage which you and other Americans feel over the war in Southeast Asia. The recent invasion of Cambodia and the resumption of bombing of North Vietnam are only the latest in a long series of actions that mean more anguish and destruction on all sides.

We also share your sense of frustration in seeking to halt this endless war and senseless policy. We believe it is time Congress played the role assigned it by the Constitution in determining our involvement in military adventures abroad.

This absence of leadership has had tragic results. We are shocked and grieved by the tragedy that occurred at Kent State. We share a sense of guilt because of the lack of alternatives provided by Congress thus far. We hope our present effort will provide a meaningful alternative.

We urge you to direct your effort to supporting congressional action to cut off further funds for Southeast Asia except for the purpose of withdrawing troops safely and systematically, the exchange of prisoners, and asylum for Vietnamese who might feel threatened by our withdrawal.

This will come to a vote, probably within 30 days, when there will be an official rollcall requiring every senator to go on record for or against continued funding of the war. Your letters, phone calls, petitions and personal visits to your senators and congressmen are urgently needed now and during the next three or four crucial weeks.

Above all, please make it known that acts of violence will be manipulated to the detriment of our cause, and will sabotage this initiative for peace.

Sincerely,
Sen. Alan Cranston (R-Calif.)
Sen. Charles Goodell (R-N.Y.)
Sen. Mark O. Hatfield (R-Ore.)
Sen. Harold Hughes (D-Iowa)
Sen. George McGovern (D-S.D.)

had a real blow-up Monday," he said.

About 200 student and faculty marshalls will be used for crowd control during the Saturday rally, he said. No violence is expected, he added.

Coming Monday

University students who spoke at Kearney State Teacher's College ran into problems Wednesday and Thursday. Their story appears in Monday's Rag.

Rag photos

Photographs in this week's Rag were taken by Jim Dean, Bill Ganzel and Howard Rosenberg.

College student congress unanimously passed a resolution "abhorring" the deaths of four Kent State University of Ohio, students, and disapproval of U.S. involvement in Cambodia.

The resolution said "all action taken by the student body of Doane College shall be both legal and non-violent."

Washington delegation

A delegation of University students left for Washington, D.C. today to talk with Nebraska Congressmen about the Cambodian policy.

The group, consisting of Dennis Burkheim, Chuck Faulkner, Randy Reeves and Ken Wald, is financed by student contributions collected Thursday.

They are also hoping to testify before the Senate Foreign Relations committee Saturday.

Nixon's statements are echoes

Echoes of President Richard M. Nixon's policy on Indochina resound from statements he made as early as 1953, according to Ken Wald, a political science major.

Wald told a Wednesday evening strike class that Nixon's policy reflects his character — the way he has been taught to act by the experiences and events of his lifetime.

"The first thing to realize is that Nixon is sincerely, thoroughly and wholly committed to the war," he said.

Wald said he doubts Nixon's mind can be changed on the rightness of American involvement in Southeast Asia. As echoes from the past of Nixon's Indochina policy today, he quoted statements the then vice-president made during a tour of Asia in 1953.

Nixon said, "There is only support for the free world or for communism." Wald said this statement asserted Nixon's continuing criticism of neutrality.

Wald also quoted Nixon as saying, "It is impossible to lay down arms until victory is completely won." Nixon also said that under no circumstances could the French, who were then battling the Vietnamese, win, but that the French must put more faith in the Vietnamese people supporting the French.

Wald noted the analogy to what Nixon says today about Indochina. He said that Nixon still wants victory in Vietnam and that the second quote compares with Nixon's Vietnamization program.

Besides Nixon's firm commitment to the Indochina involvement, Wald also noted another side of Nixon — the politician.

"Perhaps Nixon will sacrifice some principles for the continuance of political power," he said.

Wald said he believes students can apply pressure to work on Nixon's instincts as a politician. He noted that Nixon does have respect for some Congressmen, among them Roman L. Hruska. If some of these Congressmen tell Nixon he is wrong, Nixon might listen, he said.

But Wald also noted that he does not believe there is a strong chance to actually change the Nixon policy in Indochina. He said the thing to do is to dump Nixon in 1972, beginning work now.

HE HUNG UP HIS JOCK.

Five years ago Alan Abrahams was the only British track star at a small southern school. But Alan had straggly hair and liked hip music, and his small southern school hated both.

So he went from jock to rock and split to New York.

His first gig was at the Metropole, but Alan was lost in the topless shuffle on stage. And then a brassy producer convinced him to teach some kid from Pittsburgh to speak "English" and called them "Lord Alan and Sir Richard." Yeech.

It seemed like Alan would never play and sing the music he really wanted.

But then he met Bill Peters who played lead guitar. And Gary Van Scyoc who played bass and trumpet. And Adam Ippolitto who played keyboard, trumpet and tuba. And Marty Fogel who played sax. And Paul Squire who played trumpet and other miscellaneous brass.

And he put them all together to play Blues, Rock, and Jazz and called them Pig Iron. Pig Iron is a new group on Columbia Records. Give them some support.
