

Huskers tie USC in Saturday clash

the lead before halftime as Tagge fired a 15-yard touchdown pass to super sophomore Johnny Rodgers.

Nebraska enjoyed a 14-7 halftime advantage.

"That Nebraska has got one hell of a team," quipped a photographer from the Los Angeles Times. "I thought the game would be over at halftime and I could leave early. But I'm not gonna leave this one early . . . not a chance."

And it was a tough game to leave as the decisive underdog Nebraska Cornhuskers proved themselves before a West Coast crowd of 73,768 paying customers, 12,000 of them Nebraska rooters decked out in the traditional red.

Southern Cal struck first in the second half as Charlie Evans dove across from the one and Ayala kicked the extra point to tie the score again, 14-14 with 8:35 remaining in the third period.

But Nebraska's Joe Orduna, who was selected the game's top offensive performer, broke loose for a 67-yard touchdown run in the same period that pushed the Huskers in front 20-14. Paul Rogers then kicked his third extra point.

"The play is what we call a 43 counter trap," related Orduna after the game. "I just cut back to the left and the linemen did the rest. They did a terrific job of blocking the entire game."

Nebraska coach Bob Devaney also commented on Orduna's run. "His (Joe Orduna's) 67-yard run was the kind of play which he takes a pitch to the right and is supposed to run to daylight. He did it perfectly."

Jones, who seems to pass better under pressure, fired several clutch ariels during the Trojans 80-yard drive which resulted in the Trojans tying the score on Clarence Davis' nine-yard run.

Ayala kicked his third extra point to end the scoring at 21-21.

When it was over, Trojan boss John McKay was quizzed about the possibility of trying for the two-point conversion after the Trojans' final touchdown.

"We would have gone for two," he said, "if there were five minutes or less left."

McKay was hoping his Trojans would hold the Husker's potent offensive attack and reclaim the ball. They did, three times, but Troy failed to find pay dirt.

Nebraska had a chance to take a 10-point lead before the Trojans scored their final touchdown, but a Paul Roger's field goal attempt from the 12-yard line was wide to the right.

"The snap was a little low," said Nebraska quarterback Jerry Tagge who was holding for Rogers. "I should have had it on the tee a little better. It has to be perfect and it wasn't. But, I guess it's just one of those things."

And a tie instead of a win for Nebraska was just one of those things. The Huskers felt they outplayed USC, and they were not disappointed with their performance, only the final score.
