some adjustments in the second half and things got better."

And things did get better. The Black Shirts held the Jayhawks scoreless in the second half while the NU offense added 17 more points to its collection.

So what was the difference in the first and second half? "We just played much better," said Murtaugh. "We were down after Kansas started scoring, but in the second half everybody just did their job."

Devaney admitted he was disappointed in certain aspects of the Huskers defensive performance. But the Huskers did learn a lesson and proved they can come back.

"Today we learned a lot," said Devaney. "We probably showed other teams where they can hurt us, but this game should help us gain poise."

Little Red whips McCook JC, 35-6

McCook — Freshman quarterback Dave Humm passed for three touchdowns and raced six yards for another as the Nebraska freshman rolled over McCook Junior College 35-6 Saturday night.

Humm fired an eight-yard scoring strike to Glenn Garson for the first Little Red score and connected on a 33-yard aerial to Tim Lackovic for another TD.

Humm's final scoring toss was a 13-yard streak to Lackovic. M a u r y Damkroger scored for the Huskers on short-yardage situations.

Jim Ross' frosh squad now stands 2-0 on the year and visits Iowa State Nov. 6.

This is a multiple choice quiz:

- (a)  Big Red is Blue.
- (b)  Big Red is Pinko.
- (c)  Big Red is Orange.
- (d)  I give up.

If you checked --

- (a) Check your eyes. Big Red is simply not Blue. He's not even depressed. Despite his looks. He knows he's beautiful inside. 'Cause he holds lots of ink. And he's refillable.
- (b) Big Red is definitely not Pinko. In fact most people hold him in their right hands. He does put out a brash line, though, with that wild soft tip.
- (c) Right on. We told our Parker designers Big Red was somewhat too Orange to be Red. But they turned Very Pale themselves, so what else could we do? Call him Big Orange Red, if you want. Big Ocher? Big Apricotta?
- (d) Don't give up. Give Big Red. The great unquainly gift-$5
