What can you get for fee?

The Office of Student Activities is working to show students tangible benefits which come from student fees, Director of Student Activities Peter G. Wirtz said Monday.

Wirtz came to the Student Activities office in July, 1970, and has already started numerous new programs.

"With the cooperation of the entire University, we have been able to secure many facilities for the use of men and women's intramural and recreational programs," Wirtz said.

Facilities now available to students include: Women's P.E. bldg., University High School Auditorium, East Campus Union and Memorial Stadium.

Wirtz said that he is especially grateful to football coach Bob Devaney and basketball coach Joe Cipriano for their cooperation in making more facilities available.

One of the most talked about programs that Student Activities is planning this year is a day care center. Wirtz said the center would be open now, but his staff has run into problems with the first location choice.

But a second site has been agreed upon, and the Student Activities office is waiting for the approval of a committee of United Ministries of Higher Education (U.M.H.E.) officials. The U.M.H.E. site is located at 14th and R streets.

Concerning the operation of the day care center, Wirtz said that money from ASUN will pay for certain minimal equipment necessary at the center. The day care center will probably be staffed by students on the work-study financial aid program.

"I'm optimistic about the chances of opening the day care center soon," Wirtz said. The opening announcement will be in The Nebraskan.

Another program Student Activities feels strongly about is starting a student credit union. Phil Layne of Counseling Services has done considerable work on the proposed credit union.

Layne said that when the University establishes the student credit union, it will be one of the few universities in the nation offering such a service.

"The credit union will cut a lot of the red tape that students now have to go through to receive small loans," Layne said.

Layne also said that he hopes to receive federal sponsorship of his program and University faculty endorsement.

Wirtz also said that Student Activities will soon open a recreational equipment department where students will be able to rent many kinds of recreation supplies.

Other programs being considered by the Student Activities office are offering a short course on library usage, sponsoring an all-university leadership workshop and improving American and foreign student interaction.

"Every person in our office is paid by student money, and we feel accountable to students for their investments," Wirtz said.
