

What goes up . . . Nebraska's Al Nissen (center) and the Cornhuskers hope things are still looking up after the two-game swing through Texas this weekend. The Huskers are 3-0 on the year.

Huskers begin preparation today for Orange Bowl date

After a 19-day layoff, Nebraska's Orange Bowl-bound Cornhuskers begin preparation today for a date with fifth-ranked Louisiana State.

A half-dozen writers and sportscasters from Louisiana will visit the Lincoln campus today to watch the opening of the Cornhusker drills. They'll be visiting with players and coaches.

Although the Huskers have had a layoff since the Oklahoma game, regularly scheduled conditioning workouts have been held on the AstroTurf.

At the same time, Nebraska's coaching staff has been searching across the nation for possible Husker recruits. And several of the top prep grid players in the country will be visiting Cornhusker workouts the next week.

In addition will be several junior college transfers. Visiting this week will be defensive linemen John Bell of Cypress Junior College and Dave Gleason of Orange Coast Junior College. Tony Bonwell, a defensive back from Golden West Junior College, will also visit the Lincoln campus.

The Cornhuskers will work out in Lincoln until Dec. 24 when they will depart for Miami.

Football News calls Devaney top coach

by JIM JOHNSTON
Associate Sports Editor

According to Nebraska's super sophomore Johnny Rodgers, the Cornhuskers have had something big going for them this year. "Coach Devaney has done it all," says Johnny.

And Wednesday the Husker boss was honored for his accomplishments by being named National Coach of the Year by Football News. He had previously been named Big Eight Coach of the Year by both Associated Press and United Press International.

"The reason we keep winning is because of coach Devaney," assured Rodgers. "He's just got something in him that makes you want to play hard for him."

Rodgers thought a moment and tried to explain what he meant.

"Devaney is the type of fella that if you make a mistake, it doesn't hurt you because you feel sorry for yourself, but it hurts you because you feel bad about letting down coach Devaney. It's like when you do something wrong you're doing it to Devaney and not yourself."

"He's not the kind of coach to bitch at you if you do something wrong. Oh, he can drive you allright, but he'll usually sit down and talk to you about it.

"Some coaches are like they're the President or some high member of Congress. They think you have to bow down to them each time you talk to them. But with Devaney, it's like we're all the same. He's always willing to talk and he's always willing to listen."

That pretty well describes the winningest coach in the nation — Big Red's Big Bob.

BEER TALK

by Ed McMahon

In which the candid connoisseur answers questions about Beer, and the drinking of same.

DEAR ED: I'm burned up because after a weekend romp in the woods, I forgot to put a leftover 6-pak of Budweiser in the refrigerator. Everybody says you can't chill beer twice, so what should I do?

FUMING

DEAR FUMING: First, cool off, pal. Then cool off that Bud to your heart's content (or about 40°).

There's no problem, because a really good beer like Budweiser is just as good when you ice it twice.

But I can't resist mentioning that there is an easy way to avoid the situation altogether.

Budweiser.
