ASUN approves voluntary PACE proposal

ASUN will submit a modified PACE proposal to the Regents in February.

In an unusually lengthy meeting Wednesday the Senate approved Sen. Karen Hutt's proposal for a voluntary PACE program. The resolution still calls for low-income student scholarships to be financed by increased student fees, but will allow students to get a refund if they do not want to contribute to the PACE fund. PACE representatives said the change was a result of the petition drive.

The Senate also decided to request immunity from University sanctions for witnesses who testify in the Rozman hearings. It does not apply to city, state or federal action.

ASUN will also ask the Regents to give "a substantive reply" to the report of the student senate's Ad Hoc Davis Investigation Committee. They will further suggest that the Board meet with the committee and press.

Finally, the Senate almost unanimously passed Sen. Bruce Wimmer's resolution to congratulate the football team for an undefeated season, Orange Bowl win and number one ranking.
