

Three profs get Builders' nominations

Political Science teacher Stephen L. Rozman is one of three nominees for the 1971 Outstanding Professor Award.

The annual election is sponsored by the Nebraska Builders and carries a cash award of $500 to a professor selected by students as having "outstanding teaching methods" and having made "a valuable contribution to the University."

Professor of animal science Charles Adams and professor of agronomy William Colville are the two other nominees for the award.

The three professors were chosen on the basis of nominations from dormitories, fraternities and sororities, the three with the largest number of nominations being eligible for the award.

All students are eligible to vote and space will be provided for a write-in candidate, according to Builders' Student-Faculty Relations Committee Assistant Chairman Martin Johnson.

Election for the award will be in the Nebraska Union March 17-18, 9:30 a.m. 3:30 p.m. and 1 to 4 p.m. in the East Campus Union.
