The wind pressed against the walls, but inside the day-care center it was warm and quiet.

Morning brought about 15 children to the center in the basement of the United Ministries of Higher Education building.

In the renovated basement, the center opened last November with supplies donated in part by ASUN. The center is free to 3- to 5-year-old children of University students.

It is open from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. when classes are in session, according to Doris Johnston, student assistant. The number of children varies from 22 to 3 during the day depending on the class schedules of the parents, she said.

Parents wishing to send their children to the day-care center can apply at the Financial Aids Office in the Administration Building. A joint effort of ASUN and the Financial Office produced the center.
