

Runners open outdoor season

Nebraska's track team opens the outdoor season this weekend at the Texas Relays, which promises to be a showcase for the Huskers middle distance strength.

Coach Frank Sevine indicates the two mile relay, second at last month's NCAA Indoor Meet, will be composed entirely of freshmen. Jeff Wisemiller, Dan Speck, Roger Chadwick and Larry Cimato should battle for first place with competition coming from Texas at El Paso and possibly Oklahoma State.

FOR CIMATO, the quartet's anchorman, it will boil down to a grudge match between himself and El Paso's Kerry Ellison. It was Ellison who caught Cimato on the last lap of the NCAA race and gave the national title to El Paso. But Cimato is ready for the challenge.

"I lost races two different ways during the indoor season," he said. "By going out too slow and getting way behind and by blasting the first lap and dying later on. That's what happened at the NCAA. . . I really rigged at the end."

He knows it will take a smart, tactical race to beat Ellison this weekend and is hoping the past experience pays off.

Youth is also the keynote in the four-mile relay, with two freshmen and a sophomore running for Nebraska. Lynn Hall, Bob Unger, Jim Hawkins and Greg Carlberg will be teaming in an event that should be NU's best chance for a gold medal.

"WITH THE DEFENDING champion Bowling Green out of the picture with injuries this year we should have a pretty good shot at it," said Carlberg.

Carlberg will be returning to anchor the distance medley, along with Bob Unger, Cimato and Garth Case.

Leighton Priestley, Bob Pierce, John Mottley and Case will be running the mile relay.

Others competing for Nebraska are Hopeton Gordon, triple jump and long jump; Wes Leonard, triple jump and 440 intermediate hurdles; and Gary Gresset, high hurdles.

Three teams sign for '71 Husker Classic

The 1971 Husker Classic Basketball Tournament has been scheduled for December 17-18 with LaSalle, Baylor and Idaho as the guest teams, it was announced by Husker coach Joe Cipriano.

"Our idea has always been to have a representative field, and this year's lineup features a team from the East, Southwest, and Farwest, plus Nebraska from the Midlands," Cipriano said.

Cipriano also saluted the Rebounders Club, the basketball booster group which helped establish the Husker Classic.

"The Rebounders did a great job in getting the Classic off the ground, and they'll help make it better this year," Cip said. "Our goal is to make the Husker Classic the finest tournament of its type in the nation. And we're well on our way with a great field for 1971."

The Cornhuskers won the first Classic last year, beating Colorado State in the finals. Miami and Oklahoma City were the other guest teams.

Golfers drive to Oklahoma

Coach Larry Romjue's Cornhusker golfers head south this weekend to open the 1971 season. Romjue, in his first season as Nebraska head golf coach, doesn't know what to expect at the Oklahoma Intercollegiate Matches Friday and Saturday, though.

Bad weather kept the Husker golfers inside until Monday of this week, so few practice rounds have been shot in preparation for the opener.

But despite the lack of practice, Romjue expects his crew to be contenders for the Big-Eight crown at the end of May.
