

War critic Lowenstein to speak

Allard K. Lowenstein, former New York Democratic congressman and a leading war critic is scheduled to speak in the Union Centennial Room Wednesday, May 19.

Lowenstein, currently teaching at Yale University is lecturing around the country asking for a change of priorities by the Nixon administration, according to Fritz Edelstein, spokesman for the University of Nebraska Coalition for Peace and Justice, the group responsible for Lowenstein's Nebraska visit.

Edelstein said Lowenstein is particularly interested in visiting Nebraska because of the crucial nature of the 1972 Nebraska primary election.

Lowenstein Plans to discuss the issues confronting our nation in his speech and in rap sessions with students.

Scholarships for study abroad

Applications for a Fulbright-Hays Scholarship will be discussed Monday, May 3 at 3:30 p.m. in 104 Burnet. Students graduating in 1972 with at least a 3.2 average and interested in studying abroad are eligible for the scholarships.
