Money dribbles in

Students have sacrificed their evening meal, contributed money to a special fund and held a car wash to raise money for the Gary Koepke fund.

Now a concentrated effort to raise $25,000 for the fund will take place May 5-9 when students will be dribbling a basketball across the state. The dribbling will go on 24 hours a day for three and a half days. The marathon will begin at the Wyoming border, go through Ogallala, Grand Island and Lincoln and end in Omaha.

Koepke, 18, of Hoskins, was forced to leave his studies and his residence in the Harper, Schramm, Smith complex at mid-semester when he learned that he had Hodgkins disease—a form of cancer that invades the lymph glands.

Due to a lack of family health insurance and the fact that for the last eight years at least one of his 10 brothers and sisters has been enrolled at the University it would be impossible for the family to cover the $50,000 bill without help.

The dribbling will draw state-wide attention to Koepke's plight, according to Jim Kudrna, chairman of the Omaha Committee of the Koepke Trans-Nebraska Basketball Dribble. Money will be raised by asking businesses along the way to "buy miles".

Donations can be sent to 418 Harper Hall. Anyone interested in participating in the basketball dribble should contact Mike Woods at Harper Hall.

Mathematician conducts lecture

An eminent mathematician, Garrett Birkhoff of Harvard University, will conduct a colloquium lecture Friday.

Birkhoff will speak at 3:30 p.m. in 320 Burnett Hall on "Finite Element Methods for Solving Elliptic Equations". His visit to the campus and his talk for the mathematics department are sponsored by the NU Research Council.

Pharmacy open house

Departments in the College of Pharmacy will be featuring demonstrations and displays during the annual open house Sunday afternoon from 1 to 8.

The manufacture of tablets, the making of emulsions and ointments, the extraction of active ingredients of crude drugs and radio isotope studies on animals will be some of the features, according to Darrell G. Jobman, open house chairman.

The public is invited to attend and ask questions.
