

Schwartzkopf in - city to takeover buses

Tuesday's city election brought few surprises as all incumbents were returned to office, and voters overwhelmingly approved the bus bond issue. However, the fourth seat on the City Council will remain undecided until absentee ballots are counted Thursday.

Incumbent Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf walked into a second four-year term, as he early gained and held a two-to-one lead over City Councilman Ervin Peterson.

Elected to four-year terms on the City Council were Helen G. Boosalis, 51, who has served on the Council since 1959, architect Steve Cook, 45 and businessman F. Bob Sikyta, 43.

When the final returns were in, pharmacist W. Richard Baker, 34, held a slim lead of 43 votes over attorney Richard H. Hansen, 41. About 325 absentee ballots must be counted Thursday, before either Baker or Hansen is officially declared the winner.

Defeated in the Council race were Charles M. Hamilton, Nancy Childs and Bill Murrell.

Voters approved the bus bond issue by a better than four-to-one margin. The city is now authorized to take over and operate the privately-owned Lincoln City Lines, Inc.

Approval of the bus proposal allows the City Council to issue $965,000 in general obligation bonds to match a federal grant. The money will be used to buy all the present bus line equipment, the Mini-Bus Line and 39 new 45-passenger buses.

About 32,000 Lincolniters voted, a turnout similar to the last city election four years ago.

CSL, HPC, Faculty Senate interviews set this week

Interviews for student positions on the Council on Student Life, Housing Policy Committee and all Faculty Senate Committees, will be May 5 and 6.

ASUN President Steve Fowler said Monday that students representing all areas and views on campus are urgently needed to hold positions on the committees. Unlike most ASUN committees, the CSL, HPC and Faculty Senate Committees have a limited membership.

Five new students will be selected for CSL. They will sit with two other students who remain on the Committee from last year, an ASUN appointee, and seven faculty and administrators.

In existence for the past two years, CSL is one of the most important groups on campus. It is charged with making policies concerning all aspects of student life outside the classroom. Among many other actions CSL has abolished hours for freshman women, worked on the problem of discrimination at the University and investigated the student discipline code.

The Housing Policy Committee, a standing committee of CSL, has seven students among its twelve members. The group works with problems and innovations in student housing and as instrumental in forming the proposed coed visitation rights policy for on-campus housing.

Interviews for Faculty Senate Committees will be split between Wednesday and Thursday. The Human Rights, Teaching Council, Scholarships and Financial Aids, Academic Planning, Curriculum, Grading, Calendar and Examinations, Commencement, Convocation, Honors Convocation and Library Committee selections will be made Wednesday. Thursday, the interviewing committees will choose the new members for the Student Suspension and Scholastic Appeals Committees.

ASUN officials invited graduate students to sign up for the Wednesday interviews for the Calendar and Examinations, Human Rights, Grading, Teaching Council, Libraries and Scholarships and Financial Aids.

Anyone interested in more information on the available committee posts should go to the ASUN office 334 Nebraska Union. Sign-up sheets for interviews are posted outside the office.
