laws, and called the mechanics of such a move impractical.

In a telephone interview, Democratic State Party Chairman Hess Dyas contended that the new voters should be encouraged, not discouraged from registering and voting.

"I think the major technique in registration is accessibility; we haven't made it accessible... we should make it possible to register on high school and college campuses," Dyas added.

Democrat, Wallace C. Peterson, professor of economics at UNL, also agreed that everything possible should be done to accommodate the new voters.

Following a survey he conducted on the possible effects of the new voters in Nebraska, Peterson suggested the responsibility for voter registration should be shifted from the county to the state.

Because classes were not held Monday, Labor Day, The Daily Nebraskan is publishing a special edition today.

Normally The Daily Nebraskan is published on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday.

The National Bank of Commerce in Lincoln is a great believer in Big Red. So this year, we're giving a FREE Go Big Red-Number One poncho to any student who opens a "Cornhusker" checking account at NBC. Our ponchos are the color of Memorial Stadium on a football Saturday. And they'll last as long as Nebraska's black shirts, well known for their durability. So come in and visit the friendly people at NBC soon. Stop by the main bank, 13th and O, or the drive-in patio office at 10th and O. Both are close to campus and both offer you FREE Big Red ponchos when you open your "Cornhusker" checking account...at the National Bank of Commerce. Member FDIC.
