

Feeding the Fuzz... members of Sigma Alpha Mu Fraternity are holding their program to better relations with the Lincoln police again this year. The two-week program is expected to attract two policemen for lunch and dinner each day, and the fraternity reports it is a "smashing success."

ASUN services meets Tuesday

ASUN Services Committee will hold an organizational meeting Tuesday night at 8:00 in the Nebraska Union. The committee, open to any interested person, will be planning projects such as a bicycle repair shop, a co-operative grocery store, a credit union, and interim travel plans at the Tuesday meeting. Business majors and law students are especially urged to attend.

Volunteer bureau needs workers

The Student Volunteers Bureau in the Nebraska Union needs volunteers...
 ...to write letters, talk to elderly people and develop activities for them.
 ...to help mentally retarded people learn concepts of time, and to help adults at the Vocational School to learn to get on and off buses. Students in Special Ed requested.
 ...to serve as advisors for co-ed Y teen groups to organize recreation nights and social action groups.
 ...to help in sheltered work shop. Request those with interest in rehabilitation counseling.

Peterson supports Sen. Mansfield

Against the advice of UNL Economics Prof. Wallace C. Peterson, a Democrat, Nebraska Republicans Senators Roman Hruska and Carl Curtis Friday voted with the majority against tabling the military draft bill.

Peterson had sent the Nebraskans a telegram urging them to support Democratic Sen. Mike Mansfield's motion to table the draft extension bill.

In a prepared statement Peterson said the draft "runs counter to our historic tradition that persons should be conscripted for military service only under conditions that present a clear and present danger to the survival of the nation and its institutions."

An all-volunteer military force is "economically and militarily feasible," Peterson added.
