

Exon hints fieldhouse money may be switched

Tax income earmarked for the University's new fieldhouse may have to be switched to finance NU's 1972-73 general fund appropriation, Gov. J. James Exon hinted Thursday.

Exon hinted he may tell the 1972 Legislature that the fieldhouse funds will have to be used to meet the University's budget increase request.

The 1971 Legislature enacted, over Exon's veto, a bill boosting the cigarette tax to 13 cents a pack—a boost of five cents.

The estimated $7 million in increased annual revenue was split between the fieldhouse project and the new state office building.

Earlier this week, State Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln, author of the cigarette tax bill, accused Exon of stalling on the fieldhouse.

The State Building Commission headed by Exon has not yet approved architects and plans for the new fieldhouse, even though it has a statutory duty to do so.

The governor will probably supply the new Legislature with his 1972-73 budget and fiscal views during the first week of the new Unicameral session.

Exon said he's considering telling the Legislature that if the University is to get a general fund appropriation near what it wants, there won't be enough available unless the senators want "to channel a substantial portion of the cigarette tax increase into the general fund."
