

ASUN meeting lacks quorum

ASUN Senate fell three senators short of the 24-member quorum necessary to conduct business at the senate's Wednesday meeting in the East Campus Union.

But a straw vote of the senators present indicated most senators will make an effort to attend a short meeting next Wednesday to "wrap up" business before school ends.

The senate accepted—but was unable to suspend the rules for a vote on—two resolutions that their respective sponsors said will be of little value next week.

The first, introduced by Sen. Kathy Clinton, would encourage faculty members to abstain from giving examinations during dead week and encourage:

"Any student who has a final during dead week of May 1972, to report these exams to 472-2581. Also any student who wishes to comment on the present scheduling of exams may call the same number"

First Vice President Sam Brower said the purpose of the project was to "compile" data on the number of times the no-exam rule for dead week is broken.

He urged all students to call the number, despite the nontreatment of the resolution.

The second would endorse a dance being held this Friday to raise money for the Louis Cooper Defense Fund.

Louis Cooper was the human relations coordinator for the Lincoln Action Program who was arrested this winter on drug charges.

President Bruce Beecher told the senate of, and received their support for, two publications intended to help orient incoming UNL freshmen.

The first, Beecher said, will be sent to freshmen during the summer. Called the "Student Organizations Handbook," it will contain information on major UNL student groups, he said, including descriptions of their major projects and information on how a student can become involved in the group.

The second, the "Freshman Record," will go to students the first or second week of next year's fall term, Beecher said. It is to include nine pages of information about ASUN and pictures of all incoming freshmen and lists of their high school activities.

The book, printed by Collegiate Press, will be done at no expense to ASUN, Beecher said. He said freshmen will have the option of buying it or not.

Ann Henry, chairman of a committee set up to study the ASUN standing committees structure, said her committee recommends that the executives combine the education committee and the committee for educational reform, but leave the human rights and legal rights committees separate.

Although committee structuring is an executive prerogative, Beecher readily agreed to follow the committee's recommendations.

This leaves a new position, chairmanship of the human rights committee, to be filled during chairmanship interviews, which are continuing this week.

Another temporary committee studying ASUN salaries will report to the senate next fall, according to its chairman, Vince Boucher.

Sen. Bruce Cadwallader was appointed ASUN representative on a committee studying the use of space in the planned East Campus Union, according to the suggestions of the student organizations' representatives.

Dear Bugle:

"Something strange has happened. An unusual recording by a relatively unknown artist has made it big on Top 40 radio. I am referring to "American Pie" by Don McLean.

Now that's not really the strange part. What is strange is that many supposedly aware people have condemned the record as being top 40 shit! I object!

I would ask these dilettantes, some of whom have indignantly and pedantically complained to a WZMF morning jockey about his playing the record, to listen with awareness and sensitivity to the whole recording.

Let McLean speak of the day "Music" died. The "Music" of another age. An age when it was so very good and easy not to have to think too deeply. Yesterday, when your troubles seemed far away. Allow McLean to outline for you as no history teacher ever has, the events that brought us where we are today... the demise of Elvis, the incredible influence of the Beatles, the assassination of President Kennedy, the Democratic convention of 1968, the passing of Janis Joplin and all that meant, the inauguration of President Nixon, and the moon flights... to mention just a few.

BUGLE AMERICAN Milwaukee, Wis.

After that first big step, listen to McLean's "American Pie" album! McLean shows himself to be not only a wonderful musician but an intensely beautiful poet.

One cut, "Vincent," says all there is to know about the genius that was Vincent Van Gogh. Mind you, Don McLean does not write song lyrics but poetry. McLean's story of Van Gogh's struggle with himself and with an audience which was not yet ready to even tolerate him fills the listener with rage and pity.

I find very, very little of any real value in the wide world of art. Don McLean is an exception. In the midst of a thousand heroic attempts, McLean has made it. Not since Dylan have I been so excited about a poet-musician. Please listen to him!"
