A $230 music system is not an appliance

If you are looking around for a music system in the $230 price range you can either go to an audio specialist (like us), or to a large home appliance center or department store. Fearing that an audio specialty store won't offer anything for the amount of money you have to spend, you may well go first to talk to the nice man who sold you your TV set. Following him past the air conditioners, all-in-one stereo theaters, and freezers, you come to the corner devoted to stereo equipment. "Here's a nice one", he says pointing at a few nameless boxes, "Marked down from $400 to $200 just this week. Buy it - you'll like it!"

We at Stereo Studio have an alternative: our $230 Superscope/BSR/Westek system. Our experience as specialists in listening to, and carefully evaluating good stereo equipment gives us the ability to carefully choose the best values in low-priced equipment. Each component in our $230 system has proved its value and reliability in a series of tests on our service bench; the Superscope receiver and Westek speakers are guaranteed for three years, and the SP changer for one year, parts and labor, by our service department.

The receiver is made by Superscope. There are separate bass and treble controls, volume control, pushbutton on/off, and balanced flywheel tuning. There is an FM stereo indicator light and signal strength tuning meter. It doesn't have the power to shatter goblets, but its conservative RMS power rating is 10 watts with a distortion figure virtually unmatched in an expensive amplifier.

The speakers are made by Westek, and are of an air suspension design. There is an 8" full-cone (coaxial) speaker with your choice of stylish textured foam grills in orange, blue, brown or black.

The record changer we are recommending is made by BSR McDonald, long known for quality automatic turntables. It can be operated either manually or automatically; there is a convenient cueing control. It comes complete with Shure M-75 cartridge, base and dust cover.

The system price is $229.95, which is $49.95 less than the price at which we would sell the components to you separately. It is a great starter system; it will get you into quality stereo music, at a price which will leave you some money to buy records with.

Come talk to us about it. We're specialists, but we don't bite. You may. Thank you.
