Walkers plod for $16,146

by Ruth Ulrich

Through rain, a lot of wind and a little bit of sunshine, 1,038 or 1,195 registered walkers completed the 19-mile route in the third annual Lincoln Walk for Development held Saturday.

The walkers started at Lincoln Southeast High School, proceeded east of Lincoln on county roads and returned to the high school.

The walk was organized by about 40 UNL students with the help of other student volunteers and adult advisers.

According to Harry Baumert, publicity chairman, the total amount pledged was $16,146, an average of 76 cents a walker, more than last year's average of 74 cents a walker.

Of the total number of walkers, 745 were junior high age, 182 were from high schools and 268 were college age or older, Baumert said.

Although the total number of walkers was down from last year's total, walk committee member Lynn Silhasek said "despite the weather and all the things going on that weekend, I think we had a very good showing."

She said, however, that she thinks the Walk for Development would have more success if it could be organized on a more permanent, year-around basis.

Three members of the UNL gymnastics team, Frank O'Connor, Jim Unger and Gary Jeurink alternately walked the first mile on their hands, Baumert said. He said they would have gone farther, but they were complaining of sore shoulders.

Some walkers picked up litter along the roadside for the first six miles in a campaign sponsored by the Environmental Task Force.

The walk is sponsored by the American Freedom from Hunger Foundation. Funds are used for projects of a developmental nature, that is, those aimed at the causes of problems and not just the symptoms.

This year the walk will fund six local and two foreign projects. The local projects are the Cedars Home for Children Foundation, Inc., the Nebraska Special Olympics, the Lincoln Personal Crisis Service, Inc., the Nebraska Indian Inter-tribal Development Corp., the WICS-YWCA Residence for Girls and the People's City Mission Home, Inc.

The two foreign projects are a Land Distribution Foundation in Guatemala and Agricultural Aid and Education in the Dominican Republic.

LINCOLN AUDIO

330 South 9th Street - Box 6277 - Lincoln, Nebraska 68508 Phone (402) 475-6930

As you may have noticed, Lincoln has a new high fidelity shop. Lincoln Audio is the name. We are a hi-fi shop in the truest sense of the words high fidelity. This does not mean that you need $5,000 to walk in to our store. This means simply that we have carefully researched all available audio components in every price range, from the lowest end to the ultimate in sound and price. We frankly feel that we have arrived at the very best in sound value in every price range.

To put it flatly, we offer the best system prices for name brand equipment in Lincoln. Right now we have a sound system made up EPI speakers, Sherwood receiver, Benjamin-Lenco turntable, and ADC cartridge. The entire system sells for under $300 which is about $100 less than list price.

And we service what we sell. Parts and labor are provided for all our equipment (cartridges and turntables included) free of charge for at least three years.

This is a promise: you won't be pushed around or hard sold at Lincoln Audio. You'll get only the facts, from our expert technical staff.

So if your mind isn't quite made up about what hi-fi shops are like, you've got to stop by, sit down and evaluate our components in our comfortable new sound rooms.
