

Pick up football tickets beginning on August 28

Students may pick up or purchase their 1973 season football tickets at the Coliseum Aug. 28 through 31 from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m.

The tickets are $14.50 each and everyone must present a valid student ID with a current sticker.

The athletic office noted that last year some students were registered full-time, but their ID card was incorrectly marked part-time. The office advised that students check their ID before standing in the ticket line, since they will be required to show they are registered full-time.

Assistant bursar Gary Fouraker said that preregistered students' ID's had been checked, but if a student had an incorrect ID, he should bring it to the bursar's office.

He advised students who become full-time through drop and add to have their ID marked by the bursar's office representative at drop and add.

Married students also must present their marriage certificate to purchase a ticket for their spouse.

The ticket office emphasized that students must pick up their own tickets even though they may have purchased them in a block in the spring lottery, since students will be required to sign for the tickets.

Faculty tickets probably will be mailed out during the week of Aug. 27.

3-day fast to raise money

First, the students of the Lincoln Walk for Development recruit you to walk 19 miles - now they're asking you to fast for three days.

The Walk, a project run by UNL students for the past three years to raise money for local and international development projects, is sponsored by the American Freedom from Hunger Foundation (AFFHF), an organization that initiates social and economic development programs throughout the world.

The AFFHF is sponsoring the National Fast for Unity from Friday evening, Aug. 24 to Sunday afternoon, Aug. 26. The fast, the first of its kind will draw representatives from the nation's Indian tribes, minority and social action groups, welfare rights groups, civil rights groups and Appalachian groups to the Indian reservation in Winnebago, Neb.

They will meet to fast and to discuss issues ranging from the situation of the American Indian in the United States to redevelopment of drought-stricken West Africa, and propose solutions to these problems.

The fast offers the chance to engage in a cross-cultural event, learn more about conditions of social injustice and poverty, and what can be done about them, according to Student Volunteer Services.

While other cultural awareness programs presented by various ethnic student groups took place on campus, the National Fast for Unity will take place at the reservation.

If you want to participate in the fast and the discussion, contact Lynn Silhasek, rm. 200 Union. (472-2486).

Students, faculty and staff will be able to determine their alcohol quotient (AQ) on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The Lincoln Alcohol Safety Action Project will have a display in the Union from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on these days. The machine (above) can approximate the amount of alcohol needed to legally impair a person.

The machine works with a number of variables, blood volume being most important, to determine the number of drinks needed for alcohol in the blood to reach one-tenth of one per cent. A driver is considered legally intoxicated at the one-tenth per cent mark in Nebraska.

Jack Merritt, public information coordinator for the project, said the AQ machine attempts to show people individually how many drinks it takes to reach the one-tenth per cent level.

'Daily Rag' Needs A Few Good People

The UNL newspaper is now accepting applications for the positions of advertising representatives.

Jeff Aden, the advertising coordinator for the Daily Nebraskan said he will need at least ten more advertising representatives for account servicing and sales work.

"We can give the ad. reps. sales experience, advertising experience, and good bucks," Aden said.

The advertising representatives will be paid a monthly commission based on advertising sales.

"Depending upon his or her aggressiveness and perseverance, an ad. rep. can make over $5.00 per hour," Aden reported.

"We will also need a staff artist, a paid position, that can report every day," Aden reported.

HEALTH NOTES Poor Circulation?

"Our circulation will be cut off unless 3 distribution people are found before August 24," said Jerri Haussler, Business Coordinator for the Daily Nebraskan.

"We need 3 people, 5 mornings a week to place the 'Rag' on East & City campus," said Haussler. "The pay is good," she said.
