

Kiffin lists the 1971 Oklahoma game at Norman, which the Huskers won 35-31, as the highlight of his coaching career. Ranking near the top, he said, was last year's Orange Bowl win.

He said he enjoys the challenge of facing top-flight opposition and feels that Nebraska teams play well under pressure. The UCLA game will provide a definite challenge, he said.

"I think people will find out this Saturday what kind of a team we have. They shouldn't have to wait for the second game," he said.

For Kiffin, this fall will be another test. As a coach, he said he feels he will be judged on the next 11 weeks, and the dedication he feels toward his job is evident whether one watches him or talks with him.

Now 33 years old, Kiffin a bachelor until May, said he still has football on his mind nearly all the time he is awake and has no hobbies to relax.

"Football is my hobby," he explained. "I can enjoy watching films more than walking around a golf course, for instance. It's just a matter of doing what you enjoy."

Monte Kiffin makes no secret about what he enjoys.
