

Smudged dome gets polishing

Even the dome of the state capitol gathers dirt and needs cleaning and repairing occasionally. Here Myron Gagner takes a minute from his job of caulking seams in the dome to view the sower above him. Crews have been working off and on since early summer sandblasting, caulking and cleaning the top of the capitol building.

Photos by
Bill Granzel

