

Brothers...

In response to a question about Dr. Benjamin Spock's influence on the American public's child-rearing practices in the 1950s, Brothers said she thought his advice wasn't harmful.

"Dr. Spock is nothing to apologize for," she said, adding, "His advice is really meant to reassure parents that they know what they were doing."

Brothers said Spock's advice often made parents think that if they didn't raise their children according to certain rules, they were making mistakes. Brothers said she disagrees with that aspect of Spock's doctrine.

"The only thing that really affects the child is continuous rejection and coldness from the parents," she said.

"It doesn't matter how they bring up a child. If the parents really love that child, that's really all that matters."

Asked about the future of psychologists, Brothers was optimistic.

"As long as people worry, we don't have to," she said.

Brothers said she finds it encouraging that people are aware they don't need to consult psychologists and psychiatrists to solve every emotional problem.

What's discouraging, she said, is when a well-known person fears consulting professionals because it might hurt his record.

Correction...

"The Literature of Religion," an English Dept. special topics course, is being taught this semester by Prof. Robert Haller.

It was incorrectly reported that the course was canceled in last Monday's article, "English Special Topics Courses Probe Behavior, Police, Lyrics." The Daily Nebraskan regrets the error.

Outstate college study tours

European summer study jaunts open to all Nebraska college and university students and faculty members have been announced by Wayne State and Kearney State Colleges for 1974.

Study has been scheduled in Spain, France and Germany for 5-week sessions, July 1 to August 8.

Dr. Raphael Sosa, associate professor of foreign languages at Wayne State, said study in Spain will be conducted in both English and Spanish. In France and Germany, students will be placed in groups according to their fluency in French or German.

Six credit hours can be earned from the program and are transferable to other colleges, Sosa said. Tours of the major cities of each country are included in the schedule, he said.

The cost of each trip will be $755, which includes all expenses except personal spending money. The trip will depart from Chicago. Additional information can be obtained from Wayne State or Kearney State College.

The Slopes Are Open Now!

Ski What You've Been Missing In Nebraska!

And you won't have to spend all your precious time in getting there 'cause you can Ski Devils Nest, right here in the midwest, this, and all the winters to come. Devils Nest... in Northeastern Nebraska! Come... choose the run that's best for you: "Rustler's Run," "Devil's Dream" or our 5100 foot "It'll Never Work." For beginners, there's a poma lift to the gentle "Bunny Run." There is also an ice skating pond at "Tinker's Dam." And to warm everyone up after a day on the slope, there's a big ski barn, complete with an equipped rental and ski shop, a "Mitten Shop" and naturally, a roaring fire.

The 110-Chair Lift Makes It Fun Going Both Ways!

Check out ski reports for the best weekend. (We've also got 30 snow making machines to help Old Man Winter out.) And you can crowd in some extra hours of skiing after dark... yes skiing under the stars... 'cause we've installed close to 4 million candle power worth of lights to guide you on a brisk thrill down the slope.
