Complaint about bus may be unfounded

A complaint about poor bus service between the Lincoln and Omaha NU campuses may be unfounded, according to Miles Tommerassen, vice chancellor of business and finance.

Michael Whyte, a senior taking classes at both campuses complained last Thursday to the Council on Student Life (CSL).

He said a bus scheduled to leave Lincoln at 5 p.m. left at 4:50 p.m. causing him to miss it on January 29. Because he had a 6 p.m. class on the UNL campus, he contacted Ray Coffey, assistant business manager.

"Ray got a University car to drive me and another person who had missed the bus to Omaha," Whyte said.

He also said the bus leaving Omaha at 7 a.m. for the Lincoln campus is actually just a car which is always crowded. The bus leaving at 12:30 p.m., however, is a van able to carry 12 to 14 people. "Usually there are only two or three people riding on it," Whyte noted.

"If they adjusted who used the van and who used the car, the situation would be a lot better," he said.

Tommerassen said the bus service was not set up to carry passengers.

"It was set up originally as a mail service," he said. "Later they said it could haul people if there were those needing rides back and forth."

The line is mainly a mail service from the Statehouse to Omaha. The schedule is planned by the Department of Administrative Services.

Noting the state's control over all public utilities, including transportation, Tommerassen said, "if one were to set up a bus line, you'd get into an entirely different situation."

Don Shaneyfelt, CSL chairman, said he would bring the complaint to the attention of the "appropriate persons."

He said he would notify Ron Wright, assistant director of business and finance, about the problem.

"If there continues to be problems, we can look into things further," Shaneyfelt said. "The people responsible often are willing to change things once problems are brought to their attention."

"I have written to Gov. James Exon pointing out the serious problems we have encountered during this fiscal year because of the extraordinary rise in costs of utilities," Varner said.

To counter the unforeseen increased cost of fuels, Varner urged the committee to allocate more than $600,000 for utilities at the Lincoln campus. He said this amount was needed for the campus to operate.

ASUN Pres. Ann Henry said she was critical of the analysts' failure to approve $50,000 in budget requests which would have been used to acquire more books for the library.

She said the money is needed "to maintain the improvements made in the last two years."
