Support for Evensen refused by senate

A bill and a resolution proposing moral and monetary support for ASUN Sen. Evensen's candidacy for regent failed Wednesday night at the ASUN Senate meeting.

Monetarily supporting Evensen could jeopardize ASUN's nonprofit status according to ASUN President Ron Clingenpeel. Evensen is running for regent in the Sixth District.

In an effort to end speculation that he might resign, Clingenpeel assured the senate that he had not applied for any job with Drake University. The Daily Nebraskan had reported that Clingenpeel was considering applying for a position as coordinator of volunteer services at the Des Moines University.

Todd McDaniels, coordinator of ASUN Liaison programs reported to the senate that lack of coordination with living units and lack of understanding by students have hindered the program in the past.

He hopes to improve the effectiveness of the liaison program next year via a handbook, a summer mailing sheet to incoming freshman, and summer student orientation program.

A bill allocating money for the debt of the now defunct ASUN Record Store was unanimously passed. The record store debt is still in excess of $3,400.

Having withdrawn from the National Students Assoc. (NSA), the senate voted to join the National Institute of Student Government (NISG).

Lack of participation from other schools within NSA was cited as the reason for deciding to join NISG, Clingenpeel said.

A $50 membership fee was also approved by the senate for the NISG.

Two resolutions by ASUN Sen. Jim Macomber proposing the formation of investigating committees on availability of University owned apartments to married students and the possible merger of the four Nebraska state colleges with the University system were unanimously passed.
