

Cornstock to sprout Friday on Ag Campus

Cornstock IV's a comin'!
Like an annual spring crop on East Campus, Cornstock IV will again present free, live entertainment for UNL students on Friday from 12:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. on the East Campus Mall.

Participating in the East Union Concerts and Dances Committee's event will be well-known area groups such as Froggie Beaver, Blackberry Winter and The Fabulous Flippers, according to Ron Rocker, committee member in charge of Cornstock IV.

Headlining the event, Rocker said, will be the Minneapolis-based folk singer B.W. Stevenson and his band.

Rocker noted that Stevenson has produced two other popular folk-rock efforts, the latest entitled "Calabases."

Cornstock IV will sprout up between H.C. Filley Hall and the Department of Information with the brassy 9-piece sound of the Fabulous Flippers.

Froggie Beaver and Blackberry Winter are scheduled to follow the Fabulous Flippers at 1:30 p.m. and 3 p.m.

Filling the final two hours, Rocker said, will be B. W. Stevenson.

Rocker said a few instrumental changes are being made for this year's Spring Day.

"We're not going to run three stages this year, and we're trying to cut the concerts by two hours," he said.

Committee Chairman Steve Voigt said the main reason for having two stages instead of three was because of a Cornstock III occurrence.

"Ballin' Jack played twice (once in mid-afternoon and once at night), and it was too much to ask groups to move equipment twice," he said.

This year all four groups are alternating on two stages he said. In case of bad weather, Cornstock IV will be moved inside to the East Campus Activities Building.
