Gourmets gassed by gastric goobers

With the cost of living skyrocketing, student fees increasing and various and sundry other items chomping into the student budget, the poverty stricken student may be forced to concoct nourishing but economical meals from whatever materials he can gather about him. We propose a few delectable recipes to warm the tummy (or maybe turn it). Tantalizing Inner-tube soup is one of these.

Tantalizing Inner-tube Soup

one large inner tube (a tube from a 26-inch bike tire works best) tobasco sauce lots of water oregano

First soak the inner tube in tobasco sauce for several days, then rub the outer surface of the tube with liberal amounts of oregano. The oregano is optional, but it does add color and flavor to this romantic dish. Next, boil the inner tube, stirring carefully for 36 to 45 hours or until tender. Serve with cigaret butt croutons which have been baked in a hot oven until brown. Serves 75.

Stuffed Zapatos au Gratin

one well-used shoe, (hiking boots are the most appropriate, but even sandals can be made attractive)

18 back issues of the Daily Nebraskan or any other favorite publication (text books will do in a pinch)

Elmer's glue salt and pepper one bar of Dial soap mustard

Place the shoe in a well greased baking dish and cook until juicy, basting liberally with Elmer's glue every half hour. While the shoe is in the oven, marinate the back issues of the Daily Nebraskan in a thick mustard sauce; add salt and pepper to taste. When the shoe is ready, sprinkle with the basil, and nestle the footwear in the mustard-Daily Nebraskan mixture. Shave the bar of soap and place on top of the dish. Return to the oven for several hours. Garnish with bits of lint gathered from your shag
